

Dear Valued Partner,

I am reaching out to provide an update regarding Blue Ridge Power's orderly wind-down.

Blue Ridge Power's parent company, Pine Gate Renewables, initiated a sales process that will ultimately result in transitioning ownership of its solar and storage project fleet. To facilitate the sales and maximize the value of Pine Gate's assets, Pine Gate and certain subsidiaries initiated voluntary Chapter 11 proceedings in Texas.

Though Blue Ridge Power is part of Pine Gate's Chapter 11 filings, Blue Ridge Power will continue its orderly wind-down and not be part of the sales process. Blue Ridge Power is working to transition its active projects to each project's customer(s) and / or their designated replacement contractor, as permitted during the Chapter 11 proceedings.

If you are owed amounts outstanding from Blue Ridge Power, U.S. law generally restricts an entity from remitting payment for goods received and services provided before the filing date without specific Court approval. If you provided goods or services before the filing date to Blue Ridge Power and have not been paid, you may need to file a Proof of Claim as part of the process.

Additional information, including instructions for filing a Proof of Claim, is available on a website administered by the Company's claims agent, Omni Agent Solutions, at <https://omniagentsolutions.com/PGR>; by calling Omni representatives toll-free in the U.S. and Canada at +1 (888) 812-2572 or (747) 263-0193 for calls originating outside of the U.S. or Canada; or by emailing PGRIquiries@omniagnt.com.

Thank you,

David
