words for a party

This year, the Scripps National Spelling Bee turns 100 years old! We started way back in 1925, when 11-year-old Frank Neuhauser from Louisville, Kentucky, spelled “gladiolus” (a type of flower) and won $500 in gold pieces!

In 2025, to celebrate our 100th birthday, we are having a big party. Since words are our business, we collected all of the party words we could find from our One Bee list.

Can you find them below?

Now, let's put these words to good use.

Think of the best shindig you can imagine. It can be a real one or one that's just in your imagination. Where is it happening? Who's invited? What food is there to eat? Tell us about your perfect party and see if you can work four of the words from the list into your description.
