SigmaSight Founder John Burge Named to 2025 vLex Fastcase 50 Awards

SigmaSight is proud to announce that its CEO and Founder, John Burge, has been named to the 2025 vLex Fastcase 50 Awards, honoring the top legal innovators shaping the future of law and technology.

Now in its 14th year, the Fastcase 50 celebrates professionals who are pioneering change across the legal industry. Burge was recognized for leading the development of AI-powered negotiation technology that equips insurers with the same advanced tools long available to plaintiff firms.

Under Burge's leadership, SigmaSight has introduced an AI-powered operating system for insurer negotiation, bringing precision and efficiency to trial risk assessment, case valuation, and advocacy.

At the heart of this innovation are SigmaSight's proprietary AI-powered Offer Packages™, which allow file handlers to move from buried in documents to prepared advocates with a single click—empowering claims teams to achieve stronger outcomes while driving efficiency.

"We are honored to see John recognized among the industry's most impactful leaders," said the SigmaSight team. "This award reflects not only his vision, but also the mission of SigmaSight: to transform insurer negotiation with cutting-edge technology that delivers measurable results."

Burge's recognition highlights a career at the intersection of law, insurance, and technology. He previously managed a $400 million medical malpractice runoff, gaining firsthand insight into how negotiation impacts financial performance. He has also led multiple legaltech and insurance ventures, earning six software patents along the way.

With early pilots delivering 10x–50x ROI, SigmaSight is already demonstrating deep product–market fit. By combining generative AI, machine learning, and litigation analytics, the company is leading the defense-side collaboration around AI-powered negotiation and tackling the industry's $200 billion annual settlement challenge.
