

Partnership Without Private Equity

www.petverity.com

A Strategic Partnership Built Around Your Practice.

THE PROBLEM

Independent practice owners face a choice that was never built for them.

OPTION 1

Stay fully independent

Keep full control. But carry the growing weight of staffing, administration, and rising costs entirely on your own. The burden grows faster than the business.

 The burden grows faster than the business.

OPTION 2

Sell to a corporate consolidator

Get liquidity. But hand over the culture, clinical autonomy, and identity you spent years building to a private equity backed group with its own agenda.

 You become an employee for a corporation.

OPTION 3

Partner with PetVerity

Liquidity, infrastructure, and a long-term equity stake without giving up the practice you built.

 Your practice. Your culture. Your future.

The Third Option

A different path for independent practice owners.

A partnership model that gives independent practice owners liquidity, infrastructure, and a long-term equity stake while preserving the culture and clinical autonomy they built.

Our Founding Partners

Leadership that bridges medicine, operations, and technology.

Jason Bitting

Cofounder, Chief Operating Officer

Jason is a seasoned veterinary operations leader with more than 20 years in the field, beginning his career in general practice as a veterinary assistant while completing his biology degree. His passion for supporting pets and the teams who care for them led him into emergency and specialty medicine, where he built strong clinical foundations before moving into leadership roles. Since then, Jason has led high performing teams across general practice, specialty, and emergency hospitals, serving as Hospital Administrator and Regional Operations Manager. He is known for giving teams the time, support, and guidance they need to grow. Today, he brings that same approach to his role at PetVerity, where he focuses on hospital performance, team development, and medical support, helping partner practices grow while preserving the stability and culture that matter to their staff and clients.

Jonathan St. Hilaire

Cofounder, Chief Executive Officer

Jonathan is a systems-focused operator whose career began in technology, where he worked as a Senior Software Engineer on large-scale insurance platforms. His interest in building efficient, scalable systems led him into entrepreneurship, where he developed deep experience in financial modeling, process design, and private equity evaluation of service-based businesses, including completion of Wall Street Prep's Private Equity Masterclass. After spending two years studying the veterinary industry and developing his approach to practice ownership, Jonathan co-founded PetVerity in 2025 alongside Amanda and Jason, bringing the operational infrastructure, brand identity, investor strategy, and go-to-market plan he had been building into a formalized platform. Today, Jonathan leads PetVerity's platform architecture, long-term strategy, capital planning, and growth execution.

Partnership Vs. Full Sale: What Practice Owners Should Know

Comparing independence, corporate buyers, and the PetVerity partnership model.

Topic	Remain Independent	Sell 100% to Corporate Buyer	Partner with PetVerity
Upfront liquidity	No liquidity event	One-time cash-out	~80% cash at close*
Equity Retained	100%	0% equity	~20%+ rollover equity
Role After Close	Owner-operator	Employee under corporate	Equity partner & clinical leader
Clinical Authority	Full control, owner burden	Corporate protocols & KPIs	Doctor-led locally
Capital backing	Owner-owned	Private Equity owned	Founder & doctor owned
Future Upside	Limited to one hospital	None after sale	Shared equity upside
Time Horizon	Reactive to owner capacity	Buyer-driven targets	Long-term partner mindset

Liquidity and equity structure depend on valuation, rollover equity, and seller financing*

We're building our initial portfolio in Florida with broader Southeast expansion in mind.
