

Chapter 06 | Lawn Mowing & Snow Removal

06.01      Lawn Mowing Guidelines

Mowing is an essential part of lawn maintenance. It is often performed as a task to control lawn height, but proper mowing can add to the health, vigor, and overall appearance of the lawn. Mowing involves supervisors, trained operators, and well-maintained equipment. The regular mowing season is defined as starting in mid-May and ending in mid-October – approximately 20 lawn maintenance cycles. The lawn maintenance cycle includes grass mowing, trimming, and edging, as well as the proper removal/disposal of lawn litter and trash, and landscape debris.