

Senior Technical Producer

The Opportunity

Lar&Co produce creatively rich and logistically complex entertainment projects, including live music events, televised/bespoke projects, intimate immersive experiences and art projects. See larandcompany.com for more information on what we do and who we work for.

We are looking for an experienced Senior Technical Producer to lead the technical development and delivery of exceptional live experiences across our varied portfolio of projects. This is a UK based role.

Combining strategic production leadership with hands-on technical production management, this role will support our wider team in taking projects from pitch and early creative development through to on-site delivery and post-project review. The Senior Technical Producer will translate ambitious creative ideas into technically robust, commercially responsible and brilliantly executed experiences.

Working closely with clients, creative leads, producers, technical specialists and external partners, you will provide senior technical counsel, establish the right delivery approach and take overall responsibility for technical scope, budgets, schedules, resources, suppliers, risk and execution across multiple projects.

This is a senior, client-facing role for someone who can see the bigger picture while maintaining a firm command of the practical detail required to deliver complex, large-scale projects.

What you will bring

Passion You are engaged with the industry and stay informed about emerging technologies, production methods and market trends. You actively share your knowledge and use it to inspire clients, colleagues and collaborators.

Strategic thinking You can interrogate a brief, identify its technical and commercial implications and develop intelligent solutions that go beyond the expected.

Leadership You bring clarity and confidence to complex projects. You are comfortable presenting recommendations, leading multidisciplinary teams and acting as a trusted senior partner to clients.

Entrepreneurialism You identify opportunities to improve the work, strengthen client relationships, develop new capabilities and contribute to the growth of the business.

Energy You bring a positive, solutions-focused attitude to your work and maintain high standards, even when operating under pressure.

Accountability You take ownership of outcomes and balance creative ambition with technical feasibility, safety, budget, schedule and commercial performance.

The role

Technical and creative production

- Lead technical production conversations from pitch and concept development through to installation, live delivery and de-rig.
- Work closely with creative partners to translate creative concepts into compelling, feasible and cost-effective technical solutions.

LAR+CO

- Provide senior technical input during pitches, helping to shape scope, delivery strategy, budgets, schedules and client expectations.
- Develop and maintain the overall technical production approach for each project, including specifications, drawings, workflows and delivery plans.
- Guide decision-making across staging, structures, lighting, audio, video, show control, power, rigging and other relevant technical disciplines.
- Identify opportunities to use technology in ways that enhance the creative idea and audience experience.
- Ensure technical solutions are tested, integrated and ready for reliable live operation.
- Remain actively involved in the practical management and on-site delivery of projects when required.

Project leadership and delivery

- Take overall responsibility for the technical production of multiple concurrent projects, from initial scoping through to final reconciliation and review.
- Establish clear project schedules, milestones, responsibilities and approval processes.
- Lead internal and external technical teams, ensuring that everyone understands the brief, priorities, dependencies and required standards.
- Work with senior colleagues to plan project resourcing and balance requirements across the wider production pipeline.
- Anticipate technical, operational and commercial risks and establish appropriate mitigation and contingency plans.
- Maintain clear communication with project teams and clients regarding scope, deadlines, budgets, dependencies, changes and approvals.
- Lead technical production meetings, site visits, rehearsals and show-critical reviews.
- Ensure projects are delivered safely, responsibly and in accordance with relevant legislation, guidance and company procedures.
- Lead post-project reviews and turn lessons learned into practical improvements for future delivery.

Commercial and financial management

- Own and manage technical production budgets, estimates, forecasts, change control, purchase commitments and final reconciliation.
- Ensure technical solutions are commercially sound and deliver the best possible value without compromising creative or production standards.
- Monitor project financial performance and provide accurate, timely reporting to senior stakeholders.
- Manage scope changes transparently, clearly communicating their impact on budget, schedule, resource and risk.
- Negotiate effectively with suppliers, venues, freelancers and specialist partners.
- Support the development of commercially compelling proposals and contribute to pitches and new-business opportunities.

Clients and stakeholders

- Build strong, trusted and enduring client relationships.
- Act as a senior technical authority, presenting complex information and recommendations with clarity and confidence.
- Challenge briefs constructively and help clients make informed decisions.
- Manage expectations while remaining focused on finding solutions that protect the creative ambition of the project.
- Represent the business professionally with clients, venues, agencies, suppliers and other external stakeholders.
- Identify opportunities to deepen client relationships and expand the services offered by the business.
