THE IMPORTANCE OF

Lighting!

Every interior designer worth their weight will know the virtues of great lighting. It can create space where it is limited, open a dark corner, highlight a feature and make a room cosier than it actually is. But in 2025, lighting, and in particular sculptural and statement lighting, is one of the biggest interior design trends, and we are loving it!

Sculptural chandeliers and bold pendants are becoming focal points of the home as we leave boring, non-descript lamps and lights behind. A superb chandelier can be the centrepiece of a room and command as much attention and as many compliments as a well-chosen piece of art.

Drawing attention to a luxury kitchen island or dining table, or to a feature bath, it is time to be bold and have some fun with the way you light each room of your home.

In our showroom, we have placed beautiful Murano glass pendants from Italy above a luxurious bath and whilst people always comment on the fabric pressed between glass that surrounds the tub, the pendant light is almost always requested as a finishing touch.

In both our contemporary and unique shaker inspired kitchens, we have added statement chandeliers, again an exclusive brand to us from Italy, and a larger-than-life pendant that looks incredible in a client's warehouse penthouse.

World famous, the Taccia lamp has a special place in design history, Achille and Pier Giacomo Castiglioni designed the Taccia table lamp with the idea of turning a ceiling lamp upside down. Its distinctive, architectural shape and style immediately earned it a place in design history. It sits stylishly within our cinema room and is talked about as much as the film on show!

So, be brave, great lighting is an investment that pays off, and with time, chandeliers and Murano pendants can often increase in value too!
