Our morning food tour will lead you off the beaten path, to experience the real taste of Roman cuisine. You would savor the authentic flavors of the city, explore the typical food venues and the beautiful market of Campo de' Fiori, one of the oldest markets in town, if not the oldest, considering that in 1869 it was already the preferred destination of a group of 'farming ladies' coming every day from the countryside to sell their herbs and vegetables, often just sitting and cleaning them in the square. Nowadays the market has changed a lot: it is a mix of two different 'souls' of Rome: the one of the 'natives' who still go to Campo de' Fiori for food shopping, but are also looking for memories of the past, and the one of the tourists, who come to find the myth, the image of Rome they have seen in movies, art or literature.
