Waterloo Renewal Project

Planning Update – July 2026

Planning and design has begun for the first stage of the Waterloo South renewal.

Help shape the design and the planning applications.

We'd love to hear your ideas.

What would help make Waterloo South a welcoming, vibrant and connected neighbourhood? Share your ideas for streets and public spaces, getting around, local shops, community facilities and places to meet and connect. We also welcome suggestions on how construction impacts can be managed and reduced for the community.

A unique urban village on Gadigal land.

Waterloo South is the first stage of the Waterloo Renewal Project which will include new housing alongside parks, shops and community facilities in a sustainable precinct underpinned by a commitment to respect, honour and celebrate Aboriginal people and culture.

The project will deliver:

- Around 3,300 new homes – 50% social and affordable housing and 50% market housing
- More parks, open spaces and tree lined streets
- New shops, services and community spaces, including a supermarket, cafes and childcare
- Jobs, training and business opportunities.

The renewal of Waterloo South will happen in stages over 10 to 15 years.
The first new homes are expected to be ready from around 2030.
