“When I grow up, I want to be just like my mother. Except for the drinking.” -Maya Angelou (1928–2014)

Maybe you'd like to skip the jowls and double chin as well.

“I didn’t earn this neck. I inherited it.” -anonymous patient of Dr. Sieveking.

If your mother or father had a “turkey neck” or jowls at 40, you probably will too —no creams or injectables can fix this genetic trait.

A “30 something”-year-old man or woman can be an excellent candidate for a face and neck lift in the right situation. Chronological age matters far less than anatomy, genetics, and tissue quality.

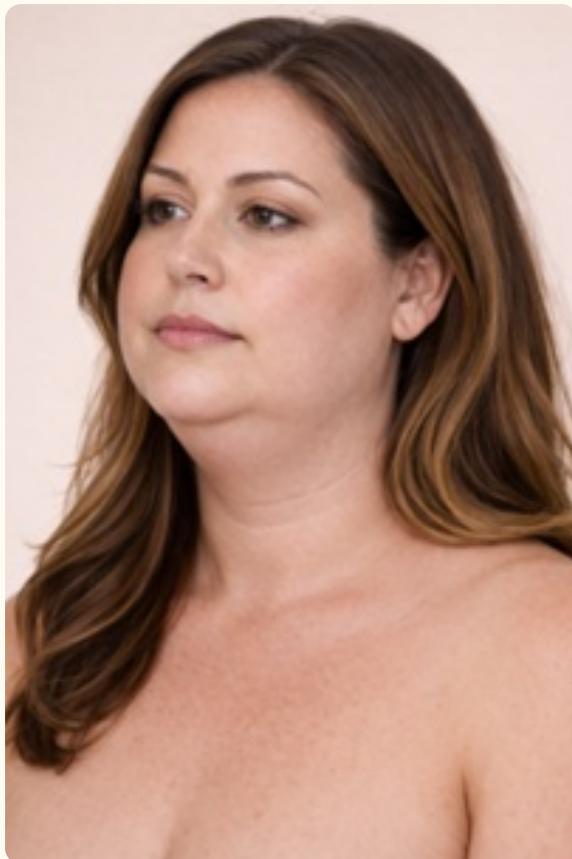

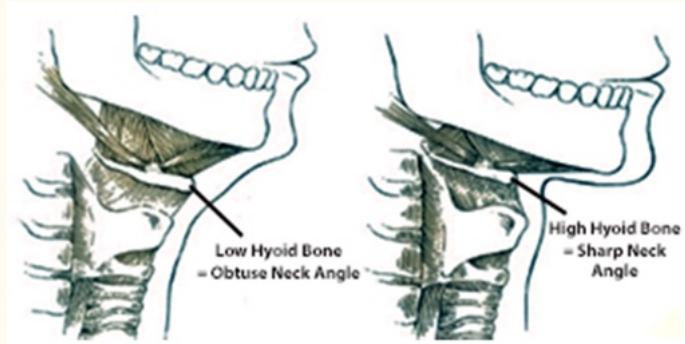

When most people hear the word facelift, they imagine a procedure reserved for later decades of life. While it's true that I have performed facelifts on patients well into their 80s, I have also performed versions of face and neck lifts in patients as young as their mid-30s. The reason is simple: a facelift is not defined by age—it is defined by anatomy, structure, and individual goals.

Genetics Can Supersede Age

Genetics of the Face and Neck:

- A low hyoid bone position can make the neck look “fatty” and full, causing an “obtuse” angle to the neck line, even at a very young age.

Early jowl formation is NOT “premature aging” but due to genetic traits:

- Weak muscle and ligament support along the jawline
- Short, retrusive chin
- Low hyoid bone position
- Thicker jowl fat pad

Full submental fat / obtuse neck angle can make one look overweight, dull, and much older. This is due to:

- Genetic “submental” fat deposit
- Weak ligament support along jawline
- Low hyoid bone position
- Heavy cheek fat pads

** Weight loss will NOT correct this.

These genetic facial traits can be easily corrected by an experienced plastic surgeon at any age!

42 year-old: Facelift, Brow Lift, Lower Blepharoplasty, & Chin Implant

There is no need to live life NOT looking as good and as sharp as you feel.

45 year-old: Just Three Weeks After Facelift

Structural Sagging at a Young Age ≠ Premature Aging

Many 38-year-olds, because of genetics, can have:

- Poor skin elasticity
- Laxity of the SMAS (facial muscles) and platysma muscles (neck muscles)
  - Early jowls
  - Neck bands
- Poor definition of jawline and neck

38 year-old: "Lower" Facelift

Early "Genetic" Jowls Create a Tired or Heavy Look

Even subtle jowling:

- Breaks the jawline
- Ages the lower face disproportionately
- Makes patients look older than peers

45 year-old: Facelift & Chin Implant

What About the Facelift Scar?

- Hidden=Inconspicuous!
- Follows natural contours of the ear and hides inside the ear canal
- Hidden and tucked behind the ear
- Camouflaged within the hair line
- Done correctly, the scar is NOT detectable...even with hair pulled back in a ponytail

- Even hairdressers have a hard time finding our perfectly-placed facelift scars
- Properly performed, the earlobe looks normal and natural

Where is the Scar?

Early Surgical Correction Prevents Years of Compensatory Injectables & “Non-Invasive” Promises

Do NOT fall victim to repeated fillers, threads, BOTOX, and lasers. Change the genetic architecture at a young age...don't look for a band-aid. A board-certified plastic surgeon who is experienced in the facelift procedure, and who also specializes in lasers and other non-surgical options (fillers, threads, BOTOX, etc.) can give you an honest assessment on how to achieve your natural goals.

Patients who use non-invasive aesthetic treatments when trying to avoid facelift often accumulate:

- Overfilled lower face
- Puffy cheeks
- Distorted facial balance

Irreversible! =>Don't Go There!

More Natural Results at a Younger Age

Younger face and neck lift patients typically have:

- Better & quicker healing
- Stronger tissue
- Less skin redundancy
- Less dramatic changes
- Longer-lasting & more natural results

- And, yes, you can safely have another facelift later in life with the same natural, age-appropriate results

Goal for three weeks after face or neck lift: friends are making comments such as “you look great...”, “have you lost weight.”, “have you changed your hair...”, etc.
