

Idaho

CURRENT LAW: SB1032

OVERALL SCORE:

66.5

STRENGTHS:

Idaho law requires that school boards and public charter schools prominently display their personal device use policies on their website.

OPPORTUNITIES:

Idaho should amend its law to require a bell-to-bell policy that stipulates inaccessible storage.

Phone-Free Schools State Report Card

Methodology Overview

The Phone-Free Schools Report Card assesses the strength of statewide policies regarding student access to personal electronic devices in schools. Grades are based on how closely the law or executive order aligns with the 2025 Phone-Free Schools Model Bill.

Policies with bell-to-bell restrictions and inaccessible storage were awarded the most points, as these provisions can have the greatest impact on student outcomes and teacher satisfaction. Additional Model Bill provisions further support the likelihood of success.

States with failed 2025 bills received a flat score of 50 points (F). States where no bill or executive order was introduced received a "0." States with a two-year (biennium) legislative session where bills were introduced in 2025, but were still pending as of publication, received an "Incomplete." Pending ("Incomplete") and failed bills were not reviewed against the Model Bill.
