

Support Hub Terms and Conditions

These terms explain the basis on which members may use the Space to Breathe Therapy Support Hub.

Using The Hub

The Support Hub provides educational and wellbeing resources, including articles, recordings, videos, worksheets and signposting. By creating an account, purchasing membership or using the Hub, you agree to use it lawfully, respectfully and in line with these policies.

Your Account

Please provide accurate information and keep your login details private. Membership is for the named member unless a different arrangement has been agreed in writing. Tell us promptly if you believe somebody else has accessed your account.

Availability and Changes

We aim to keep the Hub available and useful, but uninterrupted access cannot be guaranteed. Content, features and contributors may change as the library develops. Maintenance, technical faults or circumstances outside our control may occasionally affect access.

Important Limits

The Hub is not an emergency, diagnostic or crisis service and is not a replacement for individual medical, psychological, legal or financial advice. Members remain responsible for deciding whether a resource is suitable for them and for seeking qualified help where needed.

Ending Access

We may restrict or end access where these terms are seriously or repeatedly broken, where the Hub is misused, or where this is necessary to protect members, contributors or the service. We will act fairly and explain our decision where it is appropriate and lawful to do so.

Your Legal Rights

Nothing in these terms removes any rights you have under UK consumer or data protection law. If any part of these terms is found to be unenforceable, the remaining parts will continue to apply.
