Where great interior design and architecture meet, exceptional lifestyles are born. This simple, yet powerful ideal is the magic behind Lauren Coburn's award-winning designs. As the Owner of Lauren Coburn, LLC, she's been providing full-service interior design and renovation services to her loyal clientele since 2004. "Growing up with an artist mother and surgeon/entrepreneur father ignited my passion for design and my desire to have my own business," Coburn says. After graduating from the prestigious Cranbrook Academy and earning a degree in interior architecture from The Art Institute of Chicago, Coburn began her career at Tigerman McCurry Architects. "Being mentored by Stanley Tigerman and Margaret McCurry gave me an abiding appreciation for architectural excellence and inspired my love for the full-scale residential design and custom construction projects my firm is known for."

An Inspirational Plan

When asked her recipe for success, Coburn explains, "Hiring mainly senior-level designers has proven to be a real strength for my business. By providing my clientele with a talented, experienced staff who love what they do, I'm able to deliver world-class designs, new-builds and renovations that exceed their wants, needs and visions, all while serving as a mentor to my team."

An Audacious Alliance

"In addition to my firm, I'm part of NextHaus Alliance (@nexthausalliance), a collaborative team of two designers—of which I'm one—a builder, architect, landscape architect and AV company," Coburn shares. "We work in close collaboration to build high-end custom sustainable and passive homes."
