Holocaust de-Judaization

Thu | Nov 5 | 1-2:30pm
Al Green Theatre, Zoom simulcast or recording

Holocaust de-Judaization minimizes or erases the fact that Jews were the Holocaust's primary, targeted victims. It folds their genocide into a generic "humanity" narrative, inflates other groups' suffering to equal status, or recasts Jews as perpetrators rather than victims. Join Professor Jan Grabowski and Peter Jassem to learn about the dramatic growth of this phenomenon and how it obscures the Holocaust's specifically antisemitic logic and the near-total destruction of European Jewry.

Presented in honour of Holocaust Education Week.

Cost: $12
To Register: MNjcc Front Desk, 416-924-6211 ext. 0.

Outrageous Houses

Thu | Nov 12 | 1-2:30pm
Al Green Theatre, Zoom simulcast or recording

Modern architects have created many outrageous, astonishing, brilliant and weird dwellings. Some look like spaceships, others like spaced-out castles, and still others like three-dimensional artworks.

Join Dr. Peter Harris for a tour of Capital Hill House, the Winchester House, San Simeon, the Hundertwasser House, the Chemosphere and more. Discover just how untrammeled the architectural imagination can be.

Cost: $16
To Register: MNjcc Front Desk, 416-924-6211 ext. 0

Yiddish Scholarship Comes to America: YIVO at 100

Thu | Nov 19 | 1-2:30pm
Al Green Theatre, Miles Nadal JCC

Professor Kalman Weiser, along with Anna Shternshis and David Koffman, discusses his new publication about the YIVO Institute for Jewish Research - the groundbreaking cultural organization that was the symbolic pinnacle of building a modern, secular Yiddish culture with global headquarters in Vilna, Poland. Learn how after the Holocaust, YIVO's refugee scholars in New York acclimated to American society and its mainstream Jewish culture whilst honouring its founding ethos, "from the folk, for the folk, and with the folk," in a world in which Yiddish was in decline. Join us after the launch for book sales and a kosher reception.

Cost: Free - advance registration recommended.

November Book Club: We Were the Lucky Ones

Thu | Nov 26 | 11am-1pm
Miles Nadal JCC

In November, reviewer Denise Drabkin spotlights Georgia Hunter's We Were the Lucky Ones - inspired by the true story of one Jewish family from Radom, Poland who were separated at the start of World War II. Each desperately fights to survive, determined to reunite with their loved ones. Even if you haven't read the book, you are welcome to join us for the stimulating review, engaging discussion and the opportunity to discover a new author. Refreshments will be served.

Presented in partnership with The Bernard Betel Centre.

Cost: $10
