Adlane Samet

Adlane Samet, born in Algeria in 1989, is an expressionist painter based in Marseille, France. He trained at the École des Beaux-Arts in Algiers. Samet describes himself as a painter of instinctive moments. His work shows affinities with the free expressionism movement and Art Brut. Defined by incisive lines, sometimes sensitive, sometimes aggressive, Samet mainly works in acrylic, allowing the medium's purity, transparency, and vibrant color variations to shine. He draws inspiration from childlike compositions and graphic gestures to develop a new visual language, breaking away from the codes of academic realism.
