Dr.
Daniel Ng

Head of School & CEO

“Schools are places where students, teachers, and families form a community and should feel a sense of belonging. In addition to a strong school-to-home partnership, these are the parameters that allow for successful learning in all areas. I feel privileged to be inspired by world-class educators every day and to serve a school that places its students at its core in pursuit of offering them an excellent bilingual education.”

“Being in your element is not only about aptitude, it is about passion; it is about loving what you do.” - Sir Ken Robinson
