

KULVIR GILL

Strategy Consultant
& Executive Coach

MEET KULVIR

Kulvir Singh Gill helps organizations clarify strategic direction, align leadership teams, and translate insight into disciplined execution. With more than two decades of experience across consulting, industry, and governance, he works with executives and leadership teams to navigate complex strategic challenges and make better decisions under pressure.

Kulvir has advised senior leaders across sectors including mining, industrial technology, financial services, healthcare, and consumer industries. His work focuses on helping organizations identify the few choices that matter most, align leaders around shared priorities, and build the discipline required to move strategy from intention to action.

He has designed and facilitated strategy retreats, leadership programs, and multi-stakeholder forums for organizations around the world. Known for his structured thinking, pragmatic approach, and ability to connect diverse perspectives, Kulvir helps leadership teams surface difficult conversations, clarify trade-offs, and strengthen decision quality in moments that matter.

In addition to his advisory work, Kulvir serves on several boards and advisory groups and has played leadership roles in initiatives that convene industry, government, academia, and community organizations to address complex systemic challenges.
