

Cross-Jobs and Skills Council Generalist Skills Review

Streamlining skills requirements

This collaborative project will identify generalist skills in selected training packages to reduce duplication.

Led by Future Skills Organisation and in partnership with Service and Creative Skills Australia, this research aims to streamline future training product development..

Benefits of being involved

Your input is important and will:

- help define generalist skills such as communication, critical thinking and teamwork
- help identify existing gaps and duplications
- provide insight into workforce training needs and opportunities for improvement.

How to get involved
