

Prepare for Tax Audits

Are you prepared for the risks?

The new government plans to fill the budget with more intensive tax audits. In addition to potential additional assessments and penalties, audits also pose a risk of criminal prosecution and possible personal (including property) liability for members of statutory bodies. Disputes with the tax authorities are also extremely costly and time-consuming, often paralyzing the operations of (not only) the finance department for months and distracting attention from the core business.

How can Moore help you?

- Preventive risk mapping.
- Preparation for tax audits.
- Representation from the outset of the dispute.
- Setting up procedures and managing the dispute.
- Provision of additional capacity and bringing the dispute to a successful conclusion.
