Item 4: Services, Fees, and Compensation

Wahed Invest LLC (“Wahed” or the “Firm”) provides two primary types of services. It advises clients in a wrap fee program, and serves as investment adviser or sub-adviser to exchange-traded funds.

Wrap Fee Program

Wahed charges a wrap fee to manage assets. A Wrap Fee (“Wrap Fee” or “Program Fee”) account is a professionally managed investment account in which expenses, including brokerage commissions, management fees, and administrative costs, are “wrapped” into a single charge. Clients will pay Wahed a management fee, from which Wahed will pay transaction and other charges to third party service providers such as the account custodian. This arrangement creates a conflict of interest in that Wahed has an incentive to avoid transactions in the wrap account in order to avoid transaction charges. We mitigate this risk by assuring that appropriate transactions for rebalancing and other purposes are undertaken, regardless of costs to us.

Wahed’s Wrap Fee program provides clients portfolio management and brokerage services for one comprehensive fee based on a percentage of individual account assets. Wahed may buy or sell securities consistent with analysis designed to seek an investment return suitable to the investment objectives and goals of each distinct client. Each account is managed based upon the individual needs of the client. Wahed manages the accounts on a discretionary basis, which means that transactions are implemented by us without first contacting the client. Wahed’s Wrap Fee program is provided online through an interactive website at www.wahedinvest.com or the downloadable interactive mobile digital application (the “Website”).

Wahed determines a suitable proposed investment plan by performing a review of each client’s individual account and suitability parameters. This review may include type of account, investment objectives, overall financial condition, income and tax status, personal and business assets, risk tolerance, and other factors unique to the individual client’s situation. Based on client suitability parameters, Wahed will design, revise, and reallocate a client’s custom portfolio. For its Goal-based Income Account, clients who meet certain risk tolerances and indicate certain investment objectives may self-direct funds for investment into a single ETF or security-type of Wahed’s selection.

When a client enrolls in Wahed’s Wrap Fee program, they grant trading authority over their accounts to Wahed as described herein. Clients are not allowed to make trades in their accounts except as described herein. Clients authorize Wahed to suspend trading in their accounts if Wahed believes it necessary due to market conditions or other reasons and to reactivate trading when Wahed decides it is appropriate to do so. Clients also authorize Wahed to suspend trading in their accounts and/or access to the Website if Wahed believes it is necessary for reasons related to the Website or Wahed’s Wrap Fee program and to reactivate access and trading when Wahed decides it is appropriate to do so.

To invest with Wahed, a client must:

1. Complete an investor profile on the Website that describes the client's financial needs, investment objectives, time horizon, and risk tolerance, as well as any other factors relevant to the client's specific financial situation and any other supporting documentation the Program requires;
2. Complete the investment advisory wrap fee agreement (the "Agreement") with Wahed;
3. Complete a new account agreement with Apex Clearing Corporation ("Apex"), or another broker-dealer Wahed approves for participation in the Program (Apex or such other participating broker-dealer, the "Participating Broker-Dealer"); and
4. Open a securities brokerage account (the client's "Account") with the Participating Broker-Dealer and deposit those assets designated for participation in the Program into the account.

Thereafter, all clients are encouraged to discuss their needs, goals, and objectives with Wahed and to keep Wahed informed of any changes thereto. Wahed will contact clients quarterly to determine whether their financial situation or investment objectives have changed, or whether they want to reasonably modify their Account. The Website allows clients to review information about Wahed's Wrap Fee Program and monitor their portfolio's allocation, activity, and performance

The Participating Broker-Dealer acts as the qualified custodian and provides trade execution, clearing and related services for accounts. Each client's investment plan will include a cash allocation at the Participating Broker-Dealer, which cash allocation will not earn interest.

As of June 1, 2026, Wahed had $248,342,150 assets under management in its Wrap Fee program.

Exchange-Traded Funds

In addition to the Wrap Fee program described above, Wahed serves as the investment adviser to the Wahed FTSE USA Shariah ETF, which is a passively managed fund that seeks to track the total return performance of the FTSE USA Shariah Index, the Wahed Dow Jones Islamic World ETF, which is an actively managed fund that seeks long-term capital appreciation, each a series of a registered investment company and managed by Wahed and as the sub-adviser to the KraneShares Wahed Alternative Income Index ETF, that employs an income-focused investment strategy using equity and options (the "KraneShares Wahed Fund, and collectively, the "Wahed Funds"). Wahed will allocate the equity portion of client portfolios between the three Wahed Funds based upon its own discretion and evaluation of market conditions affecting the constituent securities in each of the related indices. Wrap Fee program clients generally are directed by Wahed to invest a portion of their account into securities of one or all of the Wahed Funds. Wahed will use an investment in the Wahed Funds for the portion of each Wrap Fee program account allocated to equities. The amount of each Wrap Fee program account invested in equities

(which will be represented by interests in the Wahed Funds) will differ based upon the risk profile of each such account. For example, “Very Aggressive” Wrap Fee program accounts will have a greater interest in the Wahed Funds than “Very Conservative” Wrap Fee program accounts. Furthermore, for its Goal-Based Income Account, which is also a part of its Wrap Fee Program, Wahed will allocate substantially all of the related client’s investment into the KraneShares Fund.

Wrap Fee program accounts with allocations to a Wahed Fund will not be charged a Program Fee with respect to the portion of their portfolio that is allocated to the Wahed Funds; provided, however, that the Firm reserves the right to charge a Program Fee to allocations made to the Wahed Funds in the future. Under certain instances, based on the fee structure of the Wrap Fee program account and the Wahed Funds, the management fee for the Wahed Funds paid by the related registered investment company or fund manager is greater than the Wrap Fee otherwise charged to the client.

Fees

Wrap Fee Program Fees

Accounts are custodied at the Participating Broker-Dealer and charged a Wrap Fee. This Wrap Fee includes all portfolio management costs, trading costs, custodial costs, and operational costs. There are no sales charges or commissions paid by the client. All portfolio management services offered in the program are provided by Wahed. Therefore, no portion of the annual fee is paid to outside portfolio managers. The Firm’s annual fee schedule is listed below. Fees are assessed on a daily basis in arrears based on a percent (listed below) of the greater of the (i) current portfolio value or (ii) net liquidation value of the account plus, in the case of clients having less than $100,000 assets under management, an annual fixed fee of $60. Note that this means that for applicable clients, the fixed fee portion of the Wrap Fee will also be incrementally assessed on a daily basis. Our fees are payable daily on each date on which the qualified custodian is open for business. Fees are charged on the client level, meaning the sum of all accounts managed under a unique Social Security or Employer Identification Number is considered when calculating fees. Fees may be negotiable. Other than as described above, Wahed does not allow clients to prepay fees.

Wrap Fee Schedule Assets under mgmt. per annum	Wahed Percentage Fee	Wahed Fixed Fee
$100 - $99,999	.49%	$60

$100,000 and over .49% —

Please also note that on any day where a client adds or withdraws cash from their account, Wahed will assign the applicable Wrap Fee based on the current portfolio value minus such cash.

Fee Comparison

Under the Program, clients receive both investment advisory services and the execution of transactions for a single, combined annualized fee, the Program Fee. Participation in the Program may cost the client more or less than purchasing such services separately. The number of transactions made in the client's accounts, as well as the commissions charged for each transaction, determines the relative cost of the Program versus paying for execution on a per transaction basis and paying a separate fee for advisory services. The Program Fee may be higher or lower than fees charged by other sponsors of comparable investment advisory programs.

Other Charges

Other than its advisory fee described above and fund management fees with respect to the Wahed Funds, neither the Firm nor its employees receive or accept any direct or indirect compensation related to investments that are purchased or sold for Accounts. Wahed's Wrap Fee is inclusive of all management fees, custodian fees, and transaction fees, except for any wiring, IRA, withdrawal or other miscellaneous Fees that are charged by the custodian, as more fully explained in the separate agreement between Wahed and the custodian, a copy which will be made available upon client written request. Expenses charged by third-party ETF sponsors or mutual fund companies (including, without limitation, the Wahed Funds, except as otherwise expressly stated herein) are not included in the Wrap Fee. The broker-dealers, mutual fund companies, and other custodians who provide services for your account charge these fees ("third party fees"), and clients are responsible for payment of all third-party fees and expenses. For these clients, it is important to note that the advisory fees paid to Wahed are separate and distinct from the maintenance fees and transaction expenses charged by these third parties (except with respect to the Wahed Funds, as expressly stated herein).

Compensation of Persons Recommending the Wrap Fee Program

Wahed performs advertising campaigns to attract clients to open accounts on the site. These campaigns may include promotions such as additional account services or products, more favorable fee arrangements or waived advisory fees. In addition, Wahed may offer advisory Clients a reduction or waiver of advisory fees, or a cash payment, for referrals of friends, family or other members of their social circle. Wahed may also enter into referral agreements with third party investment advisers whereby Wahed pays a portion of the wrap fees paid by the referred Clients to such third-party investment advisers. As a result of this referral fee, such third party investment advisers have a financial incentive to recommend Wahed's wrap fee program over other programs or services. In addition to the foregoing, Wahed has or expects to have referral arrangements in place with certain unaffiliated third parties that may act as solicitors and may from time-to-time refer potential Clients to Wahed. Each arrangement must be in compliance with Rule 206(4)-3 of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940. For each successful referral, Wahed will generally pay a commission based upon a percentage of the investment management revenue that Wahed charges and collects from the Client (and/or another payment upon certain growth goals being reached). The length of each arrangement may vary. Wahed also engages solicitors who are supervised persons from amongst its own personnel. In all cases, an affected potential Client is provided a copy of this brochure as well as the terms of the specific referral arrangement. As a result of such arrangements, such third parties may have a financial incentive to recommend Wahed's wrap fee program over other programs or services. Clients are not charged any fee nor do they incur any additional costs for being referred to Wahed by a current Client or any other person. Other than as stated above, Wahed, or any related person, does not otherwise directly or indirectly compensate any person who is not our supervised person for Client referrals.

Wrap Fee Rebate Programs

We may periodically apply Wrap Fee waivers or rebates as a promotional incentive in our marketing campaigns, subject to applicable terms and conditions which will be made available to Clients through our website or e-mail. Such waivers or rebates are discretionary, may be offered to Clients on a limited-time basis and may be for only a portion of such Wrap Fee accrued on a monthly basis. Eligibility for wrap fee waivers or rebates is contingent upon compliance with the specified program criteria and may be modified or withdrawn at any time at our sole discretion. Any Wrap Fee rebate made as a part of such marketing campaigns will only be credited through your Wahed account by the Custodian on a monthly basis or at such other periods specified in the applicable program terms and conditions.

Item 5: Account Requirements and Types of Clients

We offer investment advisory services to all individuals that reside in a country where we conduct business.¹ For its Individual and IRA accounts, Wahed offers an automated investment advisory service to its wrap fee program and exchange-traded fund clients based on modern portfolio theory. For its Goal-Based Income Account, Wahed offers a goal-based investment strategy that is discretionary in nature and designed for clients seeking low-risk, income-focused investments over short-term horizons. All clients at or above a certain risk tolerance and who set a relevant goal, may choose to invest in a Goal-Based Income Account whether they have an Individual or IRA account at all.. Wahed will endeavor to purchase only Shariah-compliant securities for our clients. Wahed utilizes a Shariah compliance advisor to periodically assess whether the securities selected for our clients are Shariah-compliant. Our mission is to provide an efficient, reliable and truly automated Shariah-compliant investment platform to investors across the globe. Each individual and IRA account portfolio is designed to be consistent with each client's risk tolerance and investment objectives, and selected investment program. For such accounts, Wahed creates an investment plan and manages a client's portfolio by seeking to identify, subject to the requirements of Shariah: 1) the optimal asset classes in which to invest, 2) the most efficient ETFs or other investments to represent each of those asset classes, and 3) the ideal mix of asset classes based on the client's specific risk tolerance. For the Goal-Based Income account, Wahed screens a client's risk tolerance and investment timeline and invests client funds in a security or ETF which is designed to 1) provide clients with their moderate targeted investment return and 2) suit clients with a low risk tolerance for loss.

The minimum investment needed to access the program is $100 per client, and Wahed may, at its own discretion, choose not to actively manage such accounts whose current portfolio value is below $100 (though Wrap Fees will still be accessed to such accounts). Wahed only trades and manages United States Dollars and no other currencies. Wahed generally provides the program to the following Types of clients:

- Individual Accounts
- Retirement Accounts (IRA)
- Goal-Based Income Accounts

Clients have real-time access to their Accounts through the Website, which is directly connected via Application Program Interface ("API") to the custodian. At any time, a client may terminate an Account, or withdraw all or part of an Account, or update his or her investment profile.

Wahed may terminate a client for failure to fund their Account with the initial required minimum, for failure to maintain a valid email address or for any other reason in Wahed's sole discretion. Unless otherwise directed by the client and pursuant to the advisory agreement, in order to meet liquidation requests, or upon termination of a client, Wahed will sell securities in the client's Account at market prices at the time of the termination, withdrawal or update.

Wahed's internet-based financial adviser platform is different than "traditional" financial adviser platforms in the following ways:

1. Wahed is an internet-based financial adviser, which means each client must acknowledge their ability and willingness to conduct their relationship with Wahed on an electronic basis. Under the terms of the Investment Management Agreement, each client agrees to receive all Account information and Account documents (including this Brochure), and any updates or changes to the same, through their access to the Website and electronic communications. Wahed's advisory service, the signature for the Account Agreement, and all documentation related to the advisory services are managed electronically. Wahed does make individual representatives available to discuss servicing matters with clients via a customer service live chat function on the Website and to discuss technical enquiries via telephone.
2. Wahed collects information from each client, including specific information about their investing profile such as financial situation, investment experience, and investment objectives, to provide its advisory services and tailor its investment decisions to each client's specific needs. Wahed solely relies on information from the client in order to customize the client's portfolio. Wahed maintains this information confidentially, subject to its Privacy Policy, which is provided on the Website. Although Wahed contacts its clients periodically as described further in Item 13 below, a client must promptly notify Wahed of any change in her financial situation or investment objectives that might require a review or revision of their portfolio.

3. The internet-based financial adviser service includes ETFs or other securities for each asset class within the plan recommended to a client. Wahed further improves accessibility through a fractional share capability, which allows investors to purchase fractional shares of securities. Wahed does not allow clients to select their own securities because each security and asset class is considered to be part of the overall investment plan. Wahed will contact clients quarterly via e-mail to determine whether their financial situation or investment objectives have changed, or if they want to place reasonable restrictions on the Account.

Item 6: Portfolio Manager Selection and Evaluation

Portfolio Management Services

Wahed provides clients with financial advice that is based on Modern Portfolio Theory ("MPT"). In MPT, the Adviser selects proportions of various asset classes rather than individual securities to attempt to maximize a portfolio's expected return for a given amount of portfolio risk, or equivalently minimize risk for a given level of expected return. MPT has its limitations, especially in the area of very low probability significant downside scenarios, but we believe it is the best framework on which to build a compelling investment management service.

Our investment methodology employs five steps:

1. Identify an ideal set of asset classes for the current investment environment.
2. Select Mutual Funds, ETF's and/or securities to represent each asset class.
3. Determine your risk tolerance to create the appropriate portfolio for you.
4. Apply Modern Portfolio Theory to allocate among the chosen asset classes for your risk tolerance.
5. Monitor and periodically rebalance your portfolio.

Specifically, Wahed must start with an accurate determination of the client's objective and subjective tolerance of risk. Wahed uses a questionnaire to ascertain the appropriate risk level for a specific client. Based on this risk analysis, Wahed seeks to create an individualized investment plan using the optimal asset classes in which to invest in Shariah-compliant products.

Specifically, Wahed endeavors to recommend the most efficient and inexpensive ETFs, Mutual Funds, and securities to represent each of the asset classes the client is suitable for and the ideal mix of asset classes based on the client's specific risk tolerance.

Wahed uses Mean Variance Optimization ("MVO") to evaluate every possible combination of the following asset classes: US equities, foreign developed markets equities, emerging markets equities, real estate, commodities, and fixed income funds. Mean Variance Optimization uses the expected return and volatility for each asset class and the covariance among asset classes to find the combination that delivers the highest possible return for any given standard deviation of a portfolio's returns. In addition to portfolio construction, we also use MVO as an important quantitative tool to evaluate how many asset classes we should use in a portfolio. If adding an asset class to the mix raises the efficient frontier, then it improves the risk-return tradeoff of the portfolios, (i.e. it offers a higher return for the same risk level or lower risk for the same return level).

Wahed periodically reviews the population of all Shariah-compliant securities, giving preference to mutual funds and ETFs, in order to identify the most appropriate securities to represent each asset class. The Firm looks for Shariah-compliant securities that minimize cost and tracking error and offer market liquidity. We choose mutual funds and ETFs that are expected to have sufficient liquidity to allow client withdrawals at any time. These selections may (and generally do) include allocations of portions of our clients' portfolios to the Wahed Funds.

Using our online platform, Wahed continuously monitors our clients' portfolios. Wahed receives an alert when a client portfolio is outside the appropriate standard deviation for the client's risk tolerance. If necessary, Wahed periodically rebalances the portfolio back to the clients' target mix in an effort to optimize returns for the intended level of risk. Wahed currently rebalances client portfolios on a quarterly basis, but may rebalance with more or less frequency, without further notice to the client, based upon market conditions and its own determination of client portfolio performance. We consider the volatility associated with each of our chosen asset classes when deciding when and how to rebalance. We do not consider tax implications. Please consult a tax specialist to determine tax implications.

The investments offered at Wahed are integrated with the Website where clients manage their Wahed account by setting an allocation between portfolios of Funds available through the program. When clients deposit to or withdraw money from their Wahed account, they are initiating transactions for the purchase or sale of proportional interests in the available Funds, in an amount that corresponds to their allocation.

Similarly, when clients adjust their allocation they are initiating transactions to exchange available Funds for one another to reflect the updated allocation.

A portfolio created using MPT-based techniques will not stay optimized over time. Wahed offers 'rebalancing' of client portfolios so that in the face of fluctuating market prices each client's portfolio remains controlled to within a narrow range of his or her allocation. Wahed recommends rebalancing because it has been shown to improve returns and because it simplifies account management for clients. Wahed's portfolio management services also include a dividend reinvestment plan. Dividend reinvestment means that dividends from the client's Funds are used to purchase additional investments in accordance with a client's allocation. We continually monitor client portfolios as our platform is engineered to alert our investment management team when any portfolio steps outside its assigned standard deviation and/or assigned optimal asset allocation mix.

Goal-Based Investment Services – Low-Risk Tolerance Income Strategy

Wahed offers a -discretionary investment program that allows clients with a low-risk tolerance to pursue short-term financial objectives through an income-focused investment strategy. This program is intended for clients who seek modest income potential over a defined, near-term time horizon while limiting exposure to volatility.

Strategy Features and Objectives

This strategy enables clients to self-direct investments toward short-term goals while selecting a low risk tolerance profile, with a portfolio substantially composed of the KraneShares Fund design to produce low-volatility equity investments with an income-focused approach. Wahed applies a conservative investment strategy aligned with the client's stated goal.

Specifically, the KraneShares Fund or such similar ETF which Wahed may select follows a rules-based options strategy designed to generate consistent income with limited downside exposure. The KraneShares Fund or similar ETF aims to provide income by investing in a diversified portfolio of U.S. large-cap equities and using a systematic equity options overlay strategy. This strategy does not seek capital appreciation and does not rely on dividend income.

Discretionary Authority and Client Direction

This investment program is offered on a discretionary basis. While Wahed will only initiate trades in this program with the client's explicit agreement to the goal-based investment parameters and risk profile, Wahed may choose the KraneShare Funds or any similar or appropriate ETF or security which meet the strategy objective. When a client funds their Goal-Based Income account, they authorize Wahed to allocate such amounts or substantially all such amounts into the designated ETF.

Client Suitability and Risk Profile Alignment

Clients participating in this strategy must confirm their understanding that the strategy is aligned with a very conservative risk tolerance profile. This classification applies regardless of the client's risk investment assessment under any other Individual Account or IRA Account that the client may have .

Review and Monitoring

Wahed will periodically review a client's participation in this strategy to ensure continued alignment with the client's designated investment timeline and objectives. Monitoring focuses on verifying whether the strategy remains appropriate for the short-term goals stated at the outset of the creation of the account. Clients are responsible for informing Wahed of any material changes to their financial needs or liquidity preferences.

Investment Tools

In addition, the Website provides tools to help clients project their expected returns, understand their risks, access information related to transactions, and review their account's prior performance.

Trade Execution, Account Maintenance, and Asset Custody

Wahed recommends Apex as a custodian for client accounts. Apex provides custody, trade execution and clearing services. Wahed recommends Apex primarily because they offer the types of securities Wahed needs to purchase in order to maintain Shariah-compliance. Wahed recommends account custodians after evaluating several factors including but not limited to, fees and expenses, capability to execute, clear, and settle trades, reputation, breadth of investment products made available, access to securities markets and expertise in handling brokerage support processes. We may also select custodians based on dual registrations and/or other qualifications and/or experience. The Firm reviews the execution of trades at each custodian used to determine whether the clients are receiving the best execution for their transactions. We will consider whether the total costs to our clients, considering all factors, including any discounted commissions and other trading costs charged to our clients by virtue of our relationships with our existing broker-dealers, are significantly affected by poor execution or execution errors. If we determine it is in the best interests of our clients to do so, we will change broker-dealers. In addition, if during our review of the broker-dealer execution we determine that Apex fails to provide the proper securities for Shariah-compliance, we will change broker-dealers.

Apex is a registered broker-dealer (member of FINRA and SIPC). We are independently owned and operated and not affiliated with Apex. Apex provides brokerage, operational support and other custodial services to our firm. Apex will be recommended to our discretionary and non-discretionary investment management clients as a result of our established services agreement, cost implications, operational support, and custodial services provided.

Wahed receives research or other products or services from broker-dealers in exchange for placing trades or processing securities related transactions for clients. No client is charged directly for these services. Specifically, Apex makes available to us other services intended to help us manage and further develop our business enterprise, such as software, compliance and business consulting, practice management publications and conferences, access to employee benefit providers, and other services. The products or services received may benefit all of our customers, not just those whose assets are custodied at the broker-dealer who provides the products or services. This may result in higher transaction costs than those that would have been incurred but for the soft dollar benefits. We have determined that the transaction charges we incur and charge to you are reasonable in relation to the value of the services received.

As a fiduciary, we endeavor to act in our client's best interests. The above-described arrangement may create a conflict of interest as we may want to place more client accounts with a broker-dealer/custodian such as Apex, solely or primarily because of these added benefits. As such, Wahed may have an incentive to select or recommend a broker-dealer based on interests in receiving the research or other products or services, rather than on clients' interest in receiving the most favorable execution. Wahed attempts to mitigate this potential conflict by performing regular reviews of execution services and the value clients receive to ensure clients are receiving the best possible value for costs paid. However, the value to all of our clients of these benefits is included in our evaluation of custodians. These benefits provide additional value, and are accordingly considered in determining which broker-dealer or custodian to utilize as part of our best execution analysis. However, we monitor and periodically assess the totality of these benefits, including particularly those that inure directly or indirectly to our clients, to assure that the continued recommendation of Apex, such other broker-dealer or such other third party manager is in our clients' best interests.

Wahed also does not use client transaction fees to compensate or otherwise reward any third-parties for client referrals. In the interest of better trade execution, Wahed may enter trades as a block where possible and when advantageous to clients whose accounts have a need to buy or sell shares of the same security. This blocking of trades permits the trading of aggregate blocks of securities composed of assets from multiple client accounts, so long as transaction costs are shared equally and on a pro-rata basis between all accounts included in any such block. Block trading allows Wahed to execute equity trades in a timelier, equitable manner, and may reduce overall costs to clients. As a result, however, the price may be less favorable to the client than it would be if similar transactions were not being executed concurrently for other Accounts.

Generally, when clients make changes to their accounts during normal stock market hours transactions will be processed at the end of day while changes clients make to their accounts when markets are closed will be processed the next business day. Transactions are sometimes subject to processing delays, which can cause significant time lapses between the time clients have initiated a change to an account and execution. In particular, processing delays may mean that account changes initiated less than thirty minutes before markets close may not transact until the next business day. Markets close at different times considering the global reach of our chosen securities basket, which is traded on multiple stock exchanges around the world. Further, deposits are automatically subject to a processing period that may be up to five business days or longer; deposit related transactions will not occur until the next business day after this processing period is complete.

To treat all customers fairly and improve execution, Wahed effects aggregated block transactions involving multiple Accounts. These transactions are not subject to any mark-ups, mark-downs, or dealer spreads. In conducting these transactions no client is favored over any other client and each client that participates in an aggregated transaction will participate at the average share price for transactions in the aggregated order. If market conditions show that these large orders will negatively impact the security prices and create an inefficient investment for our clients, we will use a technology that allows for maximum efficiency by slicing block orders into smaller, non-uniform increments and executing them at random intervals over time. Prices are equalized for all clients that are included in a block order.

There are never any separate fees for any trade execution or custody service.

Material Risks of Investing

Investing in securities involves a risk of loss that you, as a client, should be prepared to bear.

Political Risks. Most investments have a global component, even domestic stocks. Political events anywhere in the world may have unforeseen consequences to markets around the world.

Shariah-Compliant Investing Risk. Islamic principles restrict Wahed's ability to invest in certain market sectors, such as financial companies and conventional fixed-income securities, and reduce the size of the overall universe in which clients can invest. The strategy to reduce the investable universe may limit investment opportunities and adversely affect a Client's performance, especially in comparison to a more diversified portfolio. Because Islamic principles preclude the use of interest-paying instruments, cash reserves of Clients do not earn income. Furthermore, certain investments in client portfolios which are currently Shariah-complaint may in the future fail to meet the qualitative and quantitative Shariah-compliance standards set by the related Shariah experts who periodically review those investments, resulting in their removal from client portfolios.

Foreign Investing and Emerging and Frontier Markets Risk. Foreign investing involves risks not typically associated with U.S. investments, and the risks may be exacerbated further in emerging market countries. These risks may include, among others, adverse fluctuations in foreign currency values, as well as adverse political, social and economic developments affecting one or more foreign countries. In addition, foreign investing may involve less publicly available information and more volatile or less liquid securities markets, particularly in markets that trade a small number of securities, have unstable governments, or involve limited industry. Investments in foreign countries could be affected by factors not present in the U.S., such as restrictions on receiving the investment proceeds from a foreign country, foreign tax laws or tax withholding requirements, unique trade clearance or settlement procedures, and potential difficulties in enforcing contractual obligations or other legal rules that jeopardize shareholder protection. Foreign accounting may be less transparent than U.S. accounting practices and foreign regulation may be inadequate or irregular. Certain foreign markets are only in the earliest stages of development and may be considered "frontier markets." Frontier financial markets generally are less liquid and more volatile than other markets, including markets in developing and emerging economies. Securities may have limited marketability and be subject to erratic price movements. Frontier markets may be impacted by political instability, war, terrorist activities and religious, ethnic and/or socioeconomic unrest. These and other factors make investing in frontier market countries significantly riskier than investing in developed market or emerging market countries.

Depository Receipt Risk. Depository receipts, including American Depositary Receipts ("ADRs"), involve risks similar to those associated with investments in foreign securities, such as changes in political or economic conditions of other countries and changes in the exchange rates of foreign currencies. Depository receipts listed on U.S. exchanges are issued by banks or trust companies, and entitle the holder to all dividends and capital gains that are paid out on the underlying foreign shares ("Underlying Shares"). When an investment is made in depository receipts as a substitute for an investment directly in the Underlying Shares, an investor is exposed to the risk that the depository receipts may not provide a return that corresponds precisely with that of the Underlying Shares. Because the Underlying Shares trade on foreign exchanges that may be closed when each Wahed Fund's primary listing exchange is open, the related Wahed Fund may experience premiums and discounts greater than those of funds without exposure to such Underlying Shares.

General Market Risks. Markets can, as a whole, go up or down on various news releases or for no understandable reason at all. This sometimes means that the price of specific securities could go up or down without real reason, and may take some time to recover any lost value. Adding additional securities does not help to minimize this risk since all securities may be affected by market fluctuations.

Currency Risk. Overseas investments are subject to fluctuations in the value of the dollar against the currency of the investment's originating country. This is also referred to as exchange rate risk.

Regulatory Risk. Changes in laws and regulations from any government can change the value of a given company and its accompanying securities. Certain industries are more susceptible to government regulation. Changes in zoning, tax structure or laws impact the return on these investments.

Environmental, Social, Governance Risk. Applying ESG criteria to the investment process may exclude securities of certain issuers for non-investment reasons and, therefore, an investor may forgo some market opportunities otherwise available that do not use ESG or sustainability criteria. A strategy's incorporation of ESG considerations may affect its exposure to certain sectors and/or types of investments, and may adversely impact performance depending on whether such sectors or investments are in or out of favor in the market.

Market Capitalization Risk.

- Large Capitalization Investing. The securities of large-capitalization companies may be relatively mature compared to smaller companies and, therefore, subject to slower growth during times of economic expansion. Large-capitalization companies may also be unable to respond quickly to new competitive challenges, such as changes in technology and consumer tastes.
- Mid-Capitalization Investing. The securities of mid-capitalization companies may be more vulnerable to adverse issuer, market, political, or economic developments than securities of large-capitalization companies. The securities of mid-capitalization companies generally trade in lower volumes and are subject to greater and more unpredictable price changes than large capitalization stocks or the stock market as a whole.
- Small Capitalization Investing. The securities of small capitalization companies may be more vulnerable to adverse issuer, market, political, or economic developments than securities of large or mid-capitalization companies. The securities of small capitalization companies generally trade in lower volumes and are subject to greater and more unpredictable price changes than large or mid-capitalization stocks or the stock market as a whole. There is typically less publicly available information concerning smaller capitalization companies than for larger, more established companies.

Tax Risks Related to Short Term Trading. Clients should note that Wahed may engage in short-term trading transactions. These transactions may result in short term gains or losses for federal and state tax purposes, which may be taxed at a higher rate than long term strategies. Wahed endeavors to invest client assets in a tax efficient manner, but all clients are advised to consult with their tax professionals regarding the transactions in client accounts.

Risks Related to Investment Term. If you require us to liquidate your portfolio during a period in which the price of the security is low, you will not realize as much value as you would have had the investment had the opportunity to regain its value, as investments frequently do, or had we been able to reinvest in another security.

Purchasing Power Risk. Purchasing power risk is the risk that your investment's value will decline as the price of goods rises (inflation). The investment's value itself does not decline, but its relative value does, which is the same thing. Inflation can happen for a variety of complex reasons, including a growing economy and a rising money supply.

Business Risk. These risks are associated with a particular industry or a particular company within an industry. For example, oil-drilling companies depend on finding oil and then refining it, a lengthy process, before they can generate a profit. They carry a higher risk of profitability than an electric company, which generates its income from a steady stream of customers who buy electricity no matter what the economic environment is like.

Liquidity Risk: Liquidity is the ability to readily convert an investment into cash. For example, Treasury Bills are highly liquid, while real estate properties are not. Some securities are highly liquid while others are highly illiquid. Illiquid investments carry more risk because it can be difficult to sell them.

Financial Risk. Excessive borrowing to finance a business' operations decreases the risk of profitability, because the company must meet the terms of its obligations in good times and bad. During periods of financial stress, the inability to meet loan obligations may result in bankruptcy and/or a declining market value.

Default Risk. This risk pertains to the ability of a company to service their debt. Ratings provided by several rating services help to identify those companies with more risk. Obligations of the U.S. government are said to be free of default risk.

Advisory Risk. There is no guarantee that Wahed's judgment, models, or investment decisions about particular securities or asset classes will necessarily produce the intended or expected results. Wahed's judgment may prove to be incorrect, and a client might not achieve the client's investment objectives. Wahed may also make future changes to the investing algorithms and services that it provides. In addition, it is possible that clients or Wahed itself may experience computer equipment failure, loss of internet access, viruses, or other events that may impair access to Wahed's software-based or web-based service. Wahed and its representatives are not responsible to any client for losses unless caused by Wahed breaching a duty or breaching a contract.

Fund Risks, including Net Asset Valuations and Tracking Error. Wahed expects to primarily recommend and make available through its Wrap Fee program exchange-listed securities, including ETFs and other funds.

ETF performance may not exactly match the performance of the index or market benchmark that the ETF is designed to track because (i) the ETF will incur expenses and transaction costs not incurred by any applicable index or market benchmark; (ii) certain securities comprising the index or market benchmark tracked by the ETF may, from time to time, temporarily be unavailable; and (iii) supply and demand in the market for either the ETF and/or for the securities held by the ETF may cause the ETF shares to trade at a premium or discount to the actual net asset value of the securities owned by the ETF. Certain ETF or other fund strategies may from time to time include the purchase of fixed income, commodities, foreign securities, American Depositary Receipts, or other securities for which expenses and commission rates could be higher than normally charged for exchange-traded equity securities, and for which market quotations or valuation may be limited or inaccurate.

Clients should be aware that to the extent they invest in ETF or other fund securities they will pay multiple levels of compensation – fees charged by Wahed plus any management fees charged by the issuer of the ETF or other fund. This scenario may cause a higher advisory cost (and potentially lower investment returns) than if a client purchased the ETF or other fund directly. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Firm is currently waiving the Wrap Fee for the portion of client portfolios that are invested in the Wahed Funds in order to mitigate the aforementioned layering of compensation as it applies to Wahed.

An ETF or other fund (including, without limitation, the Wahed Funds) typically includes embedded expenses that may reduce the fund's net asset value, and, therefore, directly affect the fund's performance and indirectly affect a client's portfolio performance or an index benchmark comparison. Expenses of the fund may include investment adviser management fees, custodian fees, brokerage commissions, and legal and accounting fees. ETF and other fund expenses may change from time to time at the sole discretion of the issuer. ETF tracking error and expenses may vary.

Large Investment Risks. Clients may collectively account for a large portion of the assets in certain investments. If many Accounts buy or sell some or all of a particular investment where clients hold a significant portion of that investment may negatively impact the value of that investment.

The foregoing list of risks does not purport to be a complete enumeration or explanation of the risks involved in investing in Investments. As Wahed's investment strategies develop and change over time, clients may be subject to additional and different risk factors. No assurance can be made that profits will be achieved or that substantial losses will not be incurred.

Investing in the Goal-Based Income Account securities also entail the following strategy specific risks:

Derivatives Risk: The strategy involves the use of option contracts to replicate certain return characteristics. Derivatives entail risks such as leverage, volatility, and pricing inefficiencies. Small movements in the underlying assets may lead to disproportionately large losses or gains.

Synthetic Short Exposure Risk: The strategy may employ synthetic short positions through the simultaneous purchase and sale of options. These do not represent actual short sales and may be subject to basis risk, execution timing mismatches, and unanticipated performance deviations.

Counterparty Risk: To the extent that derivatives or pledged assets involve third-party clearing or execution agents, there exists a risk that the counterparty could fail to honor its obligations. Even where collateralization or clearing mechanisms are in place, counterparty risk remains relevant.

Operational Execution Risk: This strategy requires precise execution and coordination between the physical long position and the synthetic short component. Mistimed or mispriced trades, administrative delays, or allocation errors can materially impact client outcomes.

Limited Upside Participation Risk: The strategy aims to generate modest, short-duration returns with limited directional market exposure. As a result, it may underperform in strong equity or credit markets, and may not be appropriate for clients seeking capital appreciation.

No Guarantee of Outcome: While designed to deliver stable income-like characteristics, the strategy does not guarantee principal protection or a specific return. Performance may vary depending on market volatility, execution conditions, or structural inefficiencies.

Item 9: Additional Information

Wahed's Disciplinary History

Following its regulatory examination of Wahed beginning in June 2019, the SEC staff requested additional information from Wahed, investigating certain marketing communications and purported operational deficiencies between September 2018 and July 2019. Wahed fully cooperated with the SEC's investigation and elected to make an offer of settlement to the SEC, and based on information that Wahed provided, the SEC issued an Order Instituting Administrative Cease-and-Desist Proceedings against Wahed on February 10, 2022 (the "2022 SEC Order"). The SEC alleged (1) that Wahed made certain misleading statements with respect to marketing of its new equity products in 2018, (2) that from September 2018 through July 2019, Wahed represented that it periodically rebalanced its robo-advisory client accounts when it did so only twice, (3) that Wahed failed to give prior disclosure to its clients of its preference for and affiliation with the Wahed FTSE USA Shariah ETF or of any potential conflicts of interest related to the Wahed FTSE USA Shariah ETF and (4) that Wahed did not have sufficient written policies to ensure the Shariah-compliance of its report on the purification of impermissible income. The SEC alleged that Wahed violated Sections 206(2) and 206(4) of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, and Rules 206(4)-1 and 206(4)-7 promulgated thereunder. The SEC, among other things, censured Wahed and ordered Wahed to cease-and-desist from any future violations of Sections 206(2) and 206(4) of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 ("Advisers Act"), and Rules 206(4)-1 and 206(4)-7 promulgated thereunder, and pay a $300,000 civil penalty. Wahed consents to the Order without admitting or denying the SEC's findings (except as to jurisdiction and the subject matter of the action, which was admitted). Prior to the entry of the 2022 SEC Order, Wahed implemented additional remedial measures beyond previously planned operational changes made in 2019. The 2022 SEC Order can be found at <https://www.sec.gov/litigation/admin/2022/ia-5959.pdf>.

The SEC issued an Order Instituting Administrative and Cease-and-Desist Proceedings against Wahed on November 1, 2024 (the "2024 SEC Order"). The SEC alleged that from November 4, 2022 through May 2024, Wahed disseminated certain advertisements on its public website and via social media and email containing endorsements from several professional athletes that failed to provide the disclosures required under Section 206(4) of the Advisers Act, and Rule 206(4)-1 thereunder (the "Marketing Rule"). The 2024 SEC Order further alleges that Wahed disseminated advertisements on its public website that presented hypothetical, backtested performance without adopting and implementing required policies and procedures designed to ensure the hypothetical performance was relevant to the likely financial situation and investment objectives of the intended audience, also in violation of the Marketing Rule. By virtue of these actions, the SEC alleged that Wahed violated Section 206(4) of the Advisers Act, and Rule 206(4)-1 thereunder. The SEC censured Wahed and ordered it to cease-and-desist from any future violations of Sections 206(4) of the Advisers Act and Rule 206(4)-1 thereunder; ordered Wahed to pay a civil monetary penalty of $250,000; and ordered Wahed to complete certain undertakings. Wahed consents to the 2024 SEC Order without admitting or denying the SEC's findings (except as to jurisdiction and the subject matter of the action, which was admitted). The 2024 SEC Order can be found at <https://www.sec.gov/files/litigation/admin/2024/ia-6763.pdf>.

Wahed's Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

Neither Wahed nor any of its management persons are registered, or have an application pending to register, as a broker-dealer or a registered representative of a broker-dealer. Neither Wahed nor any of its management persons are registered or have a pending registration as a futures commission merchant, commodity pool operator, commodity-trading advisor, or as an associated person of the forgoing list. Neither Wahed nor its management persons have relationships with other entities in the financial services industry that materially affect Wahed's business or clients.

Wahed is an affiliate of various non-US based, regulated entities that provide financial services in their local jurisdictions as well as non-US based unregulated entities that provide professional services (collectively, the "Affiliates"). Some of Wahed's personnel, management or supervised persons also provide professional services or consultation to the Affiliates. Furthermore, Wahed receives the following corporate services from its Affiliates in connection with its business:

- Information technology design, implementation and maintenance of software, hardware and digital systems;
- Operational and logistical support with third-party service providers;
- Creative design and digital marketing activities; and
- Certain customer support functions.

Wahed's Code of Ethics

Wahed and its management and supervised persons (collectively, "personnel") subscribe to a strict code of ethics. Our Code of Ethics is constructed to comply with the investment advisory laws and regulations that require firms to act as fiduciaries in transactions with their clients. Our inherent fiduciary duty requires that we act solely in your best interest and adhere to standards of utmost integrity in our communications and transactions. These standards ensure that your interests are given precedence.

Accordingly, we have implemented extensive policies, guidelines, and procedures that promote ethical practices and conduct by all of our firm's personnel. The foregoing has been compiled and is collectively referred to as our Code of Ethics. We adopted our Code of Ethics to specify and prohibit certain types of transactions deemed to create conflicts of interest (or perceived conflicts of interest), as well as to establish reporting requirements and enforcement procedures relating to personal transactions by our personnel. Wahed's Code of Ethics, which specifically deals with professional standards, insider trading, personal trading, gifts and entertainment, and fiduciary duties, establishes our ideals for ethical conduct based upon fundamental principles of openness, integrity, honesty, and trust. We will provide a copy of our complete Code of Ethics to any client or prospective client upon request.

Brokerage Practices

As Wahed generally accepts and operates client accounts via its internet-based digital platform, the details of client transactions are automated by Wahed's systems and securely transmitted to the Participating Broker-Dealer's systems for confirmation against its records before any transactions are effected. Wahed reviews and approves the automated line-up of transactions prior to execution. All brokerage transactions for securities in accounts will be routed to the Participating Broker- Dealer for execution, which may not always obtain as favorable a price as another broker-dealer. Wahed may aggregate securities sales or purchases (a trade order) among two or more clients within a single strategy and, where possible and as appropriate. Wahed will not aggregate trades unless it believes that aggregation is consistent with its duty to seek best execution for affected clients in the aggregate. Wahed's trading practices (aggregations of trades, allocation of trades, and use of trade rotation and other processes) are designed so that the practices do not unfairly and systematically favor one client over another and so that, over time, client accounts are treated equitably.

Wahed excludes from aggregation those client accounts that have relevant investment restrictions or client activity (e.g., withdrawals pending) and, therefore, should not participate in the aggregated trade. Wahed reserves the right to not aggregate transactions when to do so would be (i) unfair under the circumstances; (ii) impractical or (iii) otherwise inappropriate. Wahed generally allocates trade orders pro rata among clients who participated in the aggregated trade order. Wahed will review its aggregation procedures at least annually to confirm that they are adequate to prevent any client from being systematically disadvantaged as a result of the aggregated transactions.

Trading orders that can only be partially filled are generally allocated on a pro rata basis, randomly allocated, or allocated on some other basis consistent with the goal of giving all clients equitable opportunities over time. If a single aggregated trade order is filled at varying prices, client accounts subject to the same trading strategy generally receive an average price for trades placed through the same broker, or other steps are taken so that all similarly situated accounts receive fair consideration over time. In some cases, Wahed may execute one trading strategy at the same time it is executing a trade order for the same security with the same or a different broker to meet account or strategy-specific requirements, in which case the two trades may be treated as distinct trades and may not be subject to pro rata allocation.

Large share trade orders can occur when there are large daily flows into or out of Wahed's Wrap Fee program, upon reallocation or rebalancing of Accounts, or if Wahed replaces an investment with another investment across all applicable Accounts. For these large trade orders, the Participating Broker-Dealer may solicit bids from other broker-dealers that may act as principal in the transaction, meaning that the other broker-dealer executes the trade in an account in which the broker-dealer has a beneficial ownership interest, or may execute a riskless-principal trade where the other broker-dealer buys (sells) a security from (to) a third party (e.g., another customer or broker-dealer).

In transactions where the Participating Broker-Dealer uses another broker-dealer acting as principal, the other broker-dealer typically accepts the risk of market price and liquidity fluctuations of executing the transactions. The broker-dealer adds a fee, called a markup or markdown (or “spread”), to compensate for this risk. The spread is not shown separately on a client’s trade confirmation or account statement. No Participating Broker-Dealer acts as principal for trades in the Program or receives the spread. These markups and markdowns will reduce the overall return of an Account.

A Participating Broker-Dealer may receive remuneration such as liquidity or order flow rebates from a market or firm to which orders are routed, but its trading practices are designed to achieve best execution.

Products and Services Provided to Wahed

A Participating Broker-Dealer may provide Wahed, at no fee or at a discounted fee, with research, software and other technology, information and consulting services, and other products and services that benefit Wahed. The provision of these products and services to Wahed may be based upon clients placing a certain amount of assets in Wahed’s Wrap Fee program. These products and services may not necessarily benefit Accounts.

Participation in Client Transactions and Potential Conflicts of Interest

We may at times buy or sell securities for our own account that we have also recommended to clients. Wahed will always document any transactions that could be construed as a conflict of interest. To mitigate or remedy any actual or potential conflicts of interest, we will monitor trading reports for adherence to our Code of Ethics.

From time to time, the Firm and its representatives may buy or sell securities for their own accounts at or around the same time as clients. In any instance in which such securities are purchased or sold we will uphold our fiduciary duty by always ensuring that transactions are beneficial to the interest of our clients and that neither the sequence nor timing of execution or any other factor results in a benefit to Wahed or our representatives.

Wahed monitors the personal securities holdings and trading of its representatives. The surveillance program monitors holdings and trades against the Code of Ethics and other applicable policies. Additionally, Wahed’s access persons must disclose all securities accounts they own or control after their hire date and review and confirm the accuracy of those accounts on an annual basis during their employment. Such access persons must also submit quarterly securities transaction reports, which shall be subject to monitoring. Access persons are required to obtain approval before acquiring securities in an initial public offering or a private placement. In addition, Wahed may, from time to time, require pre-approval of transactions by access persons in certain securities.

The Wahed Funds and Potential Conflicts of Interest

The Firm has discretion to recommend the Wahed Funds as part of its ETF selections depending on the particular suitability of each client. Accordingly, we may (and generally do) at times buy or sell securities of the Wahed Funds within client accounts, which can create a potential conflict of interest due to the relationship of the Firm as the investment adviser or sub-adviser of the Wahed Funds. In particular, Wahed has an economic incentive as investment adviser or sub-adviser to the Wahed Funds to recommend the securities issued by the Wahed Funds. Wahed attempts to mitigate this risk by waiving the Wrap Fee (i.e. advisory fee) with respect to the portion of each client account that is invested in any of the Wahed Funds. However, in certain instances, based on the fee structure of the client account and the Wahed Funds, the management fee for the related Wahed Funds is greater than the Wrap Fee otherwise charged to the client.

Review of Accounts

Wahed provides all clients with continuous access via the Website to reporting information updated daily about Account status, securities positions and balances. Clients may also receive periodic e-mail communications describing portfolio performance, account information, and product features.

Wahed's internet-based financial adviser service assumes that a portfolio created using MPT-based techniques will not stay optimized over time, and must be periodically rebalanced back to its original targets to maintain the intended risk level and asset allocations. Wahed reviews each client's Account when it is opened, and continuously monitors and periodically rebalances each client's portfolio to seek to maintain a client's targeted risk tolerance and optimal return for the client's risk level. Wahed currently rebalances client portfolios on a quarterly basis, but may rebalance with more or less frequency, without further notice to the client, based upon market conditions and its own determination of client portfolio performance. Wahed also conducts reviews when material changes may have occurred to a client's portfolio or investment objectives. We consider the volatility and timing associated with each of our chosen asset classes when deciding when and how to rebalance.

On a quarterly basis, Wahed contacts each client to remind her to review and update the profile information they previously provided. Wahed also requests that clients reconfirm the same information on an annual basis. These notifications and confirmations include a link to the client's current information and contact information for the Wahed support team. Wahed team members whose tasks include supervising, arranging and responding to these notifications, confirmations and reviews are the Chief Compliance Officer, Head of North America, Vice President, Client Support Specialists and its Investment Adviser Representatives.

Wahed conducts separate reviews related to the ETFs, securities, and mutual funds used for client portfolios. These reviews are approved by Wahed's Investment Committee and dedicated portfolio manager, which have the authority, if necessary, to take action up to and including the removal, addition or replacement of a security, from the portfolios advised by Wahed.

Client Referrals

Wahed does not receive any economic benefit, directly or indirectly from any third party for advice rendered to Wahed clients.

From time to time, Wahed may enter into solicitation agreements with its own personnel, Registered Investment Advisers (RIAs) or other licensed financial or legal professionals, as sanctioned by the state in which the professional does business.

Termination of Advisory Relationship

Either party may terminate the Investment Management Agreement any time upon written notice, said notice to be effective upon receipt. Upon termination, Advisory Fees will be calculated through the date of termination and assessed in accordance with the agreed upon rate. Unearned portions of prepaid fees will be refunded and any earned but unpaid fees will be assessed prior to the final disbursement of refunds, if any. Refund disbursements or fee invoices will be mailed to the client within fourteen (14) business days of termination.

Fund Fees and Expenses

All fees paid to Wahed for investment advisory services are separate and distinct from the fees and expenses charged by Funds to their shareholders. These fees and expenses are described in each Fund's prospectus. These fees are generally composed of a management fee and other Fund expenses. Each Wahed Fund's fees and expenses (including, without limitation, fees paid by a Wahed Fund to Wahed as investment adviser thereto) are separate from the Wrap Fee, which as noted above, will be waived for accounts with allocations to the Wahed Funds with respect to the portion of their portfolio that is allocated to the Wahed Funds.

Privacy Policy

Wahed is committed to protecting our clients' private information. Wahed has instituted policies and procedures to ensure that customer information is kept private and secure. Wahed does not disclose any non-public personal information about its customers or former customers to any non-affiliated third parties except as required by or permitted by law or agreed to by the client. In the course of servicing a client account, Wahed may share some information with its service providers, such as transfer agents, custodians, broker-dealers, accountants, and attorneys. Wahed restricts internal access to non-public personal information to those employees who need access to such information in order to provide products or services to a particular client. Wahed also maintains physical, electronic, and procedural safeguards to protect client information.

Financial Information

A. Balance Sheet

Wahed does not require or solicit prepayment of more than $1,200 in fees per client, six months or more in advance and, therefore, does not need to include a balance sheet with this brochure.

B. Financial Conditions Reasonably Likely to Impair Ability to Meet Contractual Commitments to Clients

Neither Wahed nor its management have any financial conditions that are likely to reasonably impair our ability to meet contractual commitments to clients.

C. Bankruptcy Petitions in Previous Ten Years

Neither Wahed nor its management have been the subject of a bankruptcy petition in the last ten years.
