Tempo

Who are we?

Tempo Time Credits is a charity serving communities in England & Wales engaging, encouraging, and enabling community participation and supporting pathways to volunteering. We are the thread that connects people, communities, services, and businesses.

Our Mission

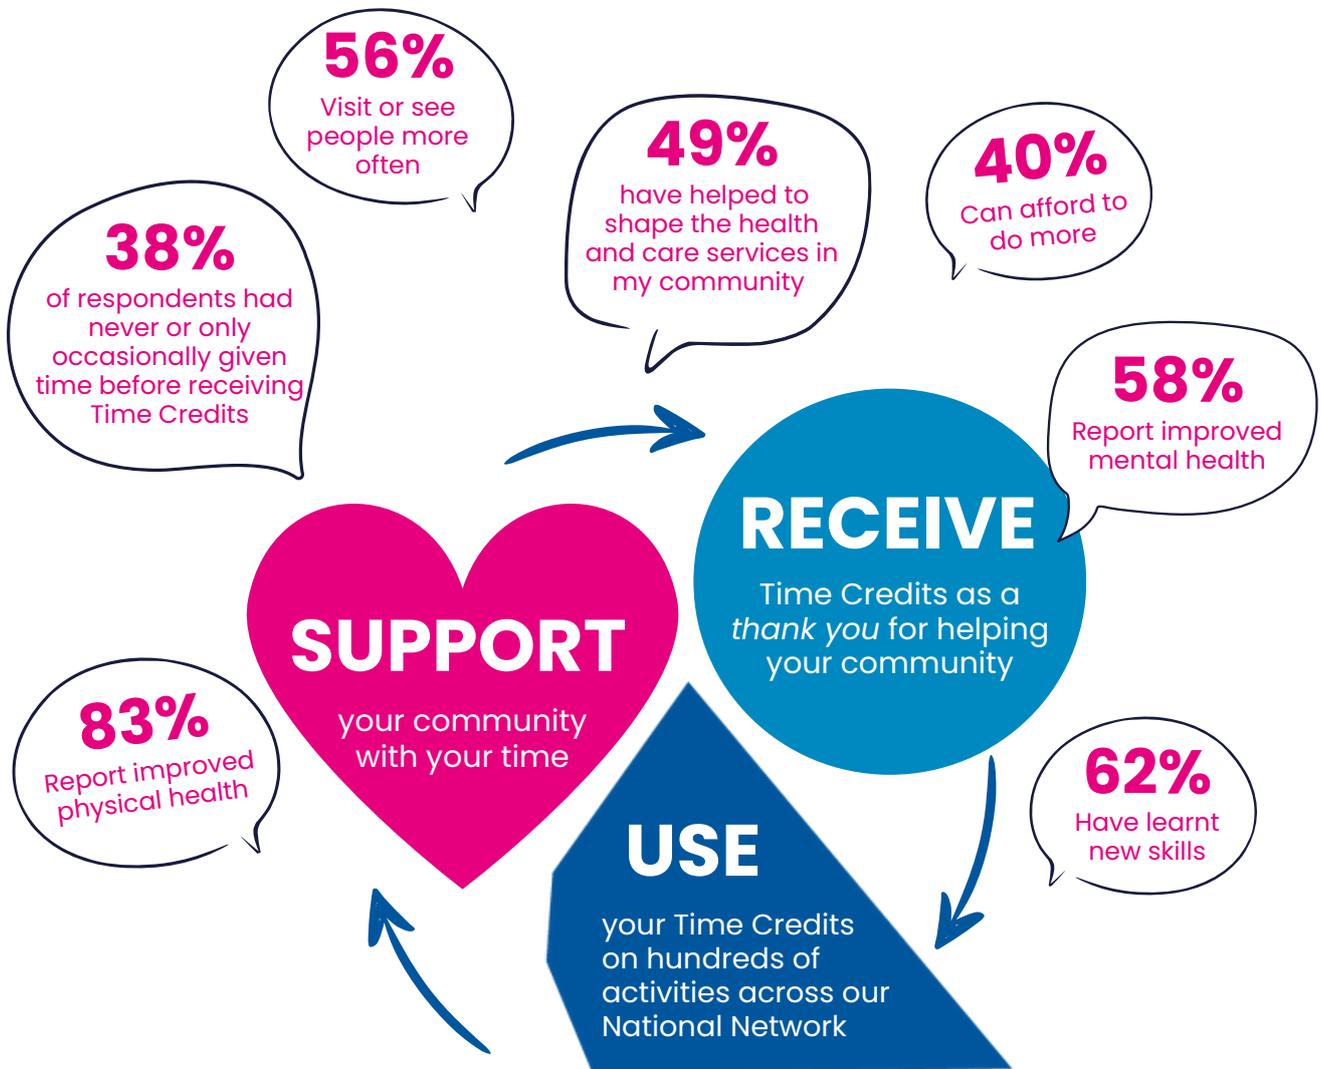

Our mission is to build a national network of communities making positive societal change, powered by people whose contribution is valued with Tempo Time Credits.

How do Time Credits work?

Participants receive credits by contributing their time and skills to community activities or projects. Through Time Credits, people are encouraged to get involved in their community, to make decisions about how services are run, and to help create and actively deliver activities. These credits can then be used to access a range of activities, services or assistance from others in the community.

THE IMPACT OF THE TIME CREDIT MODEL

VISION

Together we create a connected, fairer and healthier society.

Meet Hyacinth

"Time Credits makes me feel motivated and gives me that added incentive for attending sessions"

Hyacinth, a long-time resident of Tottenham, North London, is a dedicated mother of two boys and a proud grandmother of four. She devoted over 20 years of her life working as a nursery nurse, nurturing young minds. As she approached retirement, Hyacinth took up part-time work at Argos, striving to maintain a sense of purpose and routine.

Challenges After Retirement

Hyacinth's turning point came when she learned about Time Credits through her connections with Bubic and HAGA recovery services. Intrigued and excited by the concept, she started earning Time Credits by attending regular meetings, events, and group sessions. This new system offered a ray of hope and a fresh avenue for engagement.

Discovering Time Credits

Over the years, Hyacinth has grown to love earning Time Credits. The ability to plan trips and outings with friends became a cherished activity. Weekly visits to the leisure centre with a friend not only provided enjoyment but also gave her the satisfaction of treating someone she cared about. Her adventures expanded to include memorable visits to Tower Bridge, Kew Gardens, and even a fun day out on the Uber boats to Greenwich Boat Museum. Hyacinth's story is a testament to the profound impact that Time Credits can have on an individual's life. By providing a means to stay engaged, motivated, and socially active, Time Credits have helped Hyacinth reclaim her confidence, improve her mental health, and foster a renewed sense of purpose.

Meet David

“If I didn’t have Time Credits I’d be lost! I really would!”

David Jones volunteers every week at the Sherman Theatre in Cardiff. He first started volunteering in 2014 when the Sherman 5 initiative began, which aimed to make the Sherman Theatre feel as open and accessible as possible and to help people overcome any personal or practical barriers stopping them from coming to the theatre.

The impact of volunteering

David has learning disabilities and is unable to work, volunteering is one of the incredible ways that he meets people, learns new skills and builds his confidence! He volunteers at the Theatre every Thursday and “as much as is needed. I meet and greet and welcome people when they arrive at the Theatre. I check tickets show people to their seats and hand out programmes. I also help out with the Oasis Sensory group.”

Discovering Time Credits

David earns Time Credits for volunteering at the Theatre but says he volunteers because “I like to meet people and I like to help out with daytime activities. Volunteering fills my time. It gives me more experience and helps me to be more confident. I can also see the shows free of charge if I’m volunteering for them!”

“I went to the BBC Studios twice with my Time Credits! When you see the studios in real life, you see the whole place and the size of it! The news studio looks really small on TV but it’s huge! I went to the BBC Studios twice with my Time Credits! When you see the studios in real life, you see the whole place and the size of it! If I didn’t have Time Credits I’d be lost! I really would! You can go and see shows that are really expensive.
