

Incident Materiality Assessment

Details matter. Augment your incident response efforts by combining advanced data scanning with expert-led analysis to deliver clear facts and actionable insights into the data associated with a breach.

From Alert to Insight

When a cyber incident happens, the first questions are typically whether you've been breached and how bad it is. But what you really should be asking is what data was actually exposed.

But most organizations are left making high-stakes decisions with incomplete information.

Cyera's Incident Materiality Assessment combines Cyera's industry-leading data security platform with deep analyst expertise to quickly determine the true impact of a security incident.

Why it matters

Remediate with confidence

Securing your data is more important than ever. Let our experts help determine what data was impacted, who had access to what data and when, and the scope of the damage.

Know exactly what was exposed

Move from a "breach occurred" to a precise, defensible account of what data was impacted and how sensitive the data is in days, not weeks.

Cut response time

Combine data scanning and expert analysis for precise blast radius visibility and get answers quickly.

Eliminate guesswork

Get an authoritative narrative of who accessed what and when, enabling accurate communications and targeted remediation

Full-scope incident data evaluation

The Incident Materiality Assessment is an on-demand service combining Cyera's data and AI security platform with expert-led analysis to deliver a complete picture of your breach exposure.

On-demand targeted scanning

Scan impacted datastore(s) you identify for focused, rapid results.

Exhaustive data classification

Get a complete list of all relevant data classes - every match - so you understand the full scope of exposure.

Access auditing

See who accessed what and when, providing the narrative needed for accurate communications and remediation.

Expert-led analysis

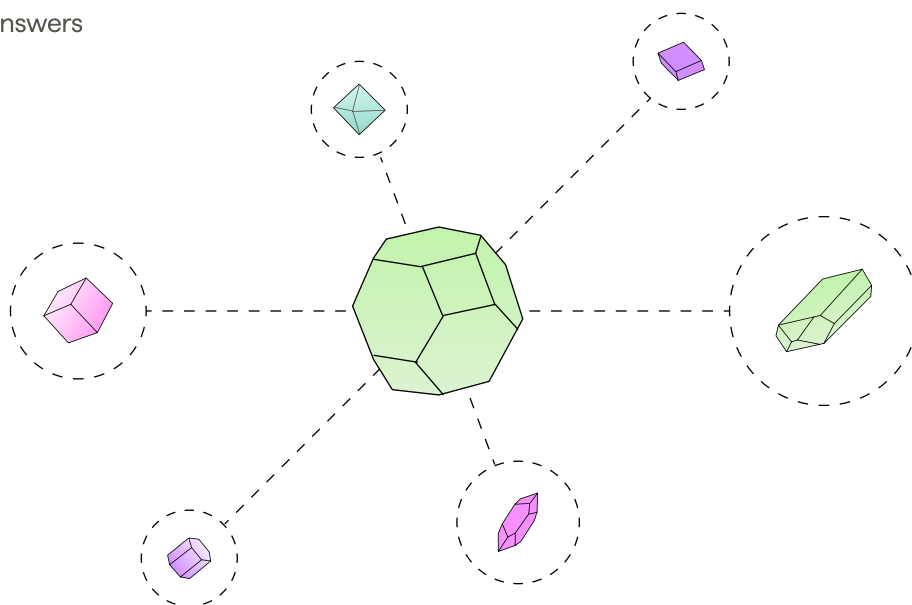

Our analysts perform deep-dive analysis, providing context and meaning behind the raw scan data.

Actionable report

Results are delivered as a comprehensive report, built for immediate decision-making, regulatory support, and stakeholder communications.

From request to results, fast

Time is critical during and after an incident. Our assessment is designed to deliver answers your team needs, quickly.

Speak to an expert today at cyera.com/incident-materiality-assessment

