Branding is a key factor to any business success. In order to build a real brand we will choose an aesthetic, a specific color way, font, and pattern. This is very important, this will grab the user's attention and give the user a more professional feel. It's scientifically proven that people tend to shop more and support a brand more when they see that it is "credible" or looks "credible". Look at apple's branding for example, everything is so packaged well, from the font in their user manual to the font on their website, or even the visuals on their website to the commercials in their store, it all looks and feels great.
