ANNOUNCEMENTS

Awareness to Action

Preventing and Detecting Breast Cancer

Breast cancer remains a leading cause of cancer-related mortality among women worldwide, despite being highly treatable. Effective management of this disease relies on understanding risk factors, early detection through screening, and timely treatment. While some risk factors are within our control, others, like genetics and age, cannot be altered. Here's a concise look at the key points:

CONTROLLABLE RISKS

HEALTHY LIFESTYLE

Reducing breast cancer risk is possible by maintaining a healthy weight, consuming a balanced diet, limiting alcohol intake, and engaging in regular exercise.

HORMONES REPLACEMENT THERAPY (HRT)

Using HRT to alleviate menopausal symptoms carries increased health risks, especially with prolonged use. Consulting healthcare professionals for informed decisions is crucial.

UNCONTROLLABLE RISKS

GENDER

Women are inherently at a higher risk of developing breast cancer.

AGE

The risk increases with age, particularly for those over 50, though it can vary by country.

GENETICS

Mutations in BRCA1 and BRCA2 genes significantly elevate the risk, necessitating enhanced screening.

Detection and Screening

Mammography, an essential tool in breast cancer detection, uses X-rays to identify abnormalities in breast tissue. Its effectiveness lies in its ability to detect tumors that are too small to be felt, allowing for earlier intervention. Advancements in mammography, such as digital mammography, offer higher resolution images, facilitating the detection of subtle changes and improving diagnostic accuracy. Regular mammograms are recommended for women over the age of 40 or earlier for those with high-risk factors, serving as a critical step in the early detection and treatment of breast cancer.

Breast cancer management is multifaceted, emphasizing lifestyle choices, understanding personal risk factors, and committing to regular screenings. Awareness of controllable and non-controllable risks enhances early detection efforts, contributing to better survival rates. Despite diagnostic challenges, ongoing research and technological advancements promise more personalized and effective strategies against breast cancer.

WHIFFY PHUKET URGES CANNABIS CRACKDOWN

Phuket tourism leaders are urging stricter cannabis regulations after a rise in incidents involving intoxicated foreign tourists tarnished the island's image. Phuket Tourism Association vice-president Sarayut Mallum linked erratic tourist behaviour to excessive cannabis use and called for reclassifying cannabis for medical purposes. MP Chalermpong Saengdee proposed zoning rules limiting use to areas like Patong, noting Phuket's 1,600 cannabis outlets create enforcement challenges. Oversupply and poor-quality products have led to health issues among visitors. Authorities plan to gather feedback from tourism and business groups for a government review, emphasizing stronger enforcement and awareness to protect Phuket's reputation.

 - Mindanao Earthquake, Philippines A 7.2-magnitude earthquake with several aftershocks led to a state of emergency declared on 1 October 2025. Several flights were canceled, and tourists postponed or canceled trips due to safety concerns.
- 2. Competitive Marketing to Attract International Tourists
 - Singapore: Launched special discount campaigns via UnionPay during the Golden Week period.
 - South Korea: Offered special privileges for inbound travelers and launched the campaign "Korea Welcomes You" from 29 September 2025 to 30 June 2026.
 - China: Expanded visa-free travel for GCC countries (including Saudi Arabia, Qatar, and the UAE).
 - Vietnam: Introduced the "Vietnam – Your Next Destination" campaign to promote tourism in 12 countries, especially targeting India and China. The campaign runs from 17 August 2025 to 14 August 2026.

Key Issues to Monitor

Economic Concerns and Global Slowdown Risks
Rising fears of a global economic slowdown or recession—coupled with uncertainty surrounding a potential new round of trade wars under President Trump—may lead to currency volatility, impacting purchasing power, tourist spending behavior, and travel decisions during the upcoming high season.

Malaysian Tourist Arrivals to Thailand Decline in 2025, While Other Destinations See Growth

Malaysian tourists remain a key market for Thailand's tourism industry, but several negative factors have contributed to a drop in arrivals.

According to Kasikorn Research Center, the number of Malaysian visitors to Thailand is expected to decrease by 7% in 2025 from the previous year, reaching around 4.6 million people. Tourism spending is projected at 96.1 billion baht, down 8% year-on-year.

A key concern is the intensifying regional competition, which has caused Thailand to lose some market share. Additionally, safety concerns continue to affect Malaysian travelers' confidence in visiting Thailand.
