With the acquisition of the ARVA Group, d&b audiotechnik deepens its commitment to the Nordic region, joining forces with a trusted distributor renowned for premium audio solutions and customer-first service across Sweden, Denmark, Norway, and Finland.

d&b audiotechnik announces the acquisition of the ARVA Group, a leading supplier of top-end pro audio equipment in the Nordic region, with offices in Stockholm, Malmö, Aarhus, Oslo and Helsinki. This move reinforces d&b's long-term commitment to local markets and customer proximity.

Committed to best sound quality

Since its foundation in 1989, the ARVA Group has committed to providing products and solutions delivering the best sound quality, offering d&b audiotechnik as the flagship brand in its portfolio.

Leveraging strong strategic partnerships, ARVA has consistently offered high-end audio solutions for a variety of markets including recording studios, large-scale live events, as well as performance and commercial audio installations. ARVA's operations span Sweden, Denmark, Norway, and Finland, with each subsidiary deeply attuned to local market needs. Their service-driven approach and relationship-focused sales strategy have earned them a reputation as a reliable and knowledgeable partner in both mobile and installation markets.

Strong partnership continued under the d&b brand

Customers across the Nordic region can expect the same high level of service and deep industry expertise. "ARVA and d&b share the same values and are dedicated to education – building deep knowledge among our staff and customers", says Olof Arvidsson, CEO & Founder of ARVA Group "With this acquisition we ensure continuity to our customers as well as employees. The team remains unchanged, and our collaboration builds on years of trust and shared values."

The acquisition builds on a longstanding partnership, transforming collaboration into deeper integration under the d&b audiotechnik brand. "Together, we are closer to our Scandinavian customers than ever, offering tailored solutions, strategic expertise, and access to the latest innovations in professional audio." says Jaakko Kaivonen, CRO d&b audiotechnik. "We look forward to continuing and expanding the strong relationships that have defined our partnership."

The transaction is subject to customary closing conditions, including regulatory approvals.
