Securing Australian's for more than 50 years

We commenced our security operations back in 1973, and we have been looking after families, their homes and their assets ever since. More than half a century on, we are still Australian owned, still based on the Mornington Peninsula, and still answerable to the people we protect.

These days we reach a lot further than we did in the beginning. We look after family homes and holiday houses, businesses and high-profile clients right across Australia and New Zealand, around the clock, every day of the year.

What hasn't changed is who is watching. Your alarm system is monitored by our team, you get the reach of a national company with the care of a neighbour.

Good security is invisible, right up until the moment you need it.

Why your home is safer with us

We don't do off-the-shelf solutions. We design, install, monitor and maintain every system ourselves, built around your home and backed by technology most others can't match.

Real people. Real response.

Your alarm is monitored by our A-Grade Monitoring Centre. If an alarm is triggered, our operators assess the situation and can dispatch patrol officers or contact emergency services when required, providing a fast and professional response when it matters most.

We can see what is happening.

The moment an alarm is triggered, the event is sent to our monitoring centre team, who assess and interpret the data and take appropriate action. This means we are already responding and have eyes on your home as soon as the alarm activates.

Two networks. No gaps in coverage.

Our alarm systems connect to both the Telstra and Optus networks simultaneously. If one network experiences an outage or loss of signal, the other takes over immediately helping ensure your alarm remains connected and always protected.

Built around your home.

No off-the-shelf kits here. Our licensed & experienced technicians design and fit your system around the way you live, room by room and door by door.

Most alarm companies rely on a single network. With two networks, we make sure ours never goes quiet.

One team, looking after all of it

It all works together, and it is all handled by the same team. Here is what we do.

Alarm monitoring. We watch your alarms around the clock, so the second something trips, someone is already on it.

Alarm installation. Designed and fitted by licensed technicians, with proper cover on every door, window and living space.

CCTV. Discreet, high-quality cameras that let you check in on your property from the next room or the other side of the world.

Mobile Patrols. Our patrol vehicles and trained security officers are on the road 24/7, you can count on a genuine security presence and prompt attention to your property when it's needed most.

Servicing and maintenance. Regular check-ups that keep every part of your system doing its job, year after year.

Not just alarms. Not just cameras. Actual patrol vehicles, actual trained professionals, actual response.
