What to Look For & How To Pick:

Deep pink to red — look for fully colored, firm berries.

A ripe raspberry will easily release from the plant. If you have to pull, it's not ready!

Check underneath! Lift the branches (canes) and look low - some of the best berries can be hiding beneath the leaves!

Washing & Storage

Wait to wash! Rinse raspberries just before you're ready to eat them. Extra moisture can cause berries to spoil!

To wash:

Gently rinse under cool water and let them drain or pat dry carefully.

To store:

Keep unwashed berries refrigerated in a shallow container lined with a paper towel. Avoid packing them too tightly, raspberries are delicate!

Pro Tips:

Enjoy fresh or use them for jams & jellies within a few days for the best flavor and texture.

You can also freeze your berries on a baking tray in a single layer, then re-bag once frozen solid to store for smoothies & baking.
