

FACTSHEET

PROVENCE LODGE

A quieter rhythm between garden and hill

4 Bedrooms • Up to 10 guests

The Shepherds Farm

The pace of the house

Provence Lodge sits between the pool garden and the Walled Potager. It is the quieter residential house on the estate: close to the shared day, but with enough room for a family or part of the group to settle into a gentler pace.

The ground floor moves from dining room to open-plan kitchen and living area, then towards the mudroom and hammam on the pool side of the house. The atmosphere is warm and domestic, with the ease of rooms intended to be lived in rather than simply passed through.

The Lodge is connected to both sides of estate life. One direction leads towards the pool and garden; the other towards the Potager. Inside, cooking, dining, reading and conversation remain close without being compressed into a single anonymous room.

The hammam adds a slower ritual to the day. A children's room is planned for the level below, but it remains under construction and is not currently present or available to guests.

Rooms to live in

The dining room

A separate dining room gives everyday meals and longer evenings their own setting, while remaining directly connected to the kitchen and the rest of the ground floor.

The kitchen and living area

The open-plan kitchen is residential and generous, with the living area and fireplace close by. Cooking, coffee and conversation can happen together without the room feeling formal.

The hammam and mudroom

On the pool side of the house, the mudroom absorbs the practical movement of outdoor life. The private hammam and shower create a quiet pause before or after time in the garden and pool.

The future children’s room

A children’s room is planned for the lower level. It is still under construction and is not currently present or available to guests.

Where you will sleep

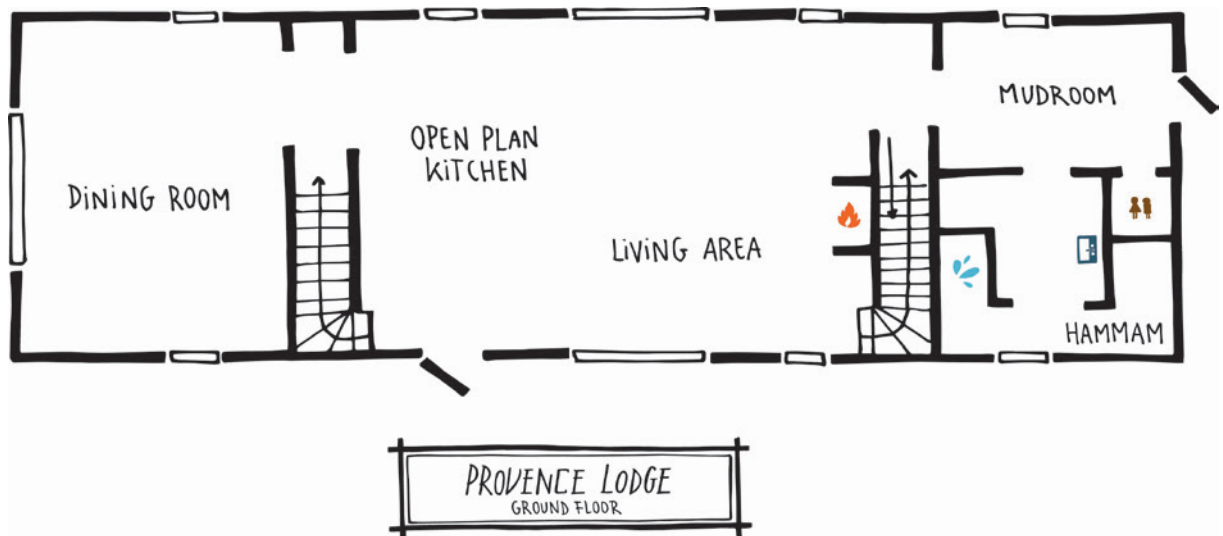

Four bedroom arrangements sleep up to ten guests. Each has its own orientation, while all share the calm, residential language of the Lodge.

Room	Sleeps
Valley View Room	2 Guests Double room	A double room for two, named for its outlook across the valley and shaped by the soft, residential character of the Lodge.
Hill View Room	2 Guests Double room	A double room for two, named for its view towards the Kemmelberg and shaped by the same calm, natural palette.
Family Room	Up to 4 Guests Double and twin	A family arrangement combining a double room with a smaller adjoining room containing two single beds.
Classic Room	2 Guests Double room	A double room for two, shaped by the same soft colours, natural materials and residential calm as the rest of the Lodge.

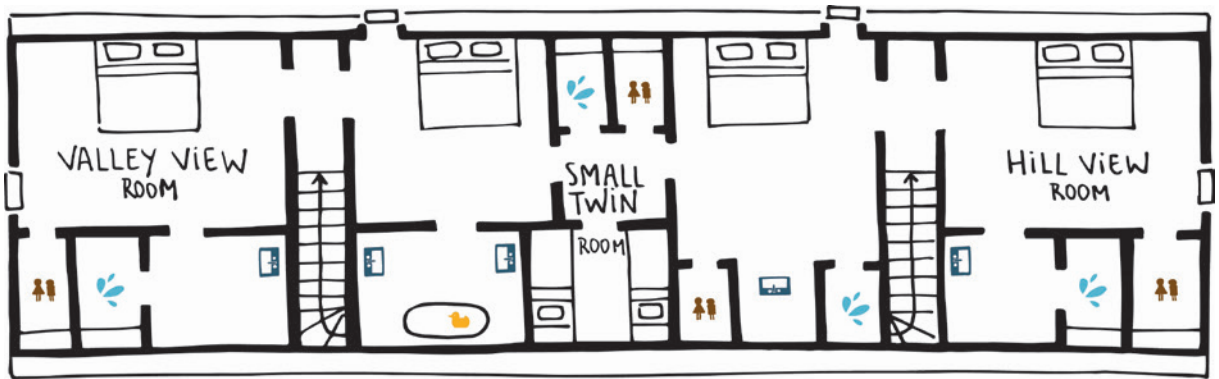

Ground Floor

The ground floor brings together the dining room, open-plan kitchen, living area, mudroom and hammam. The final artwork should confirm each label and the circulation between the pool side and Potager side of the house.

First floor

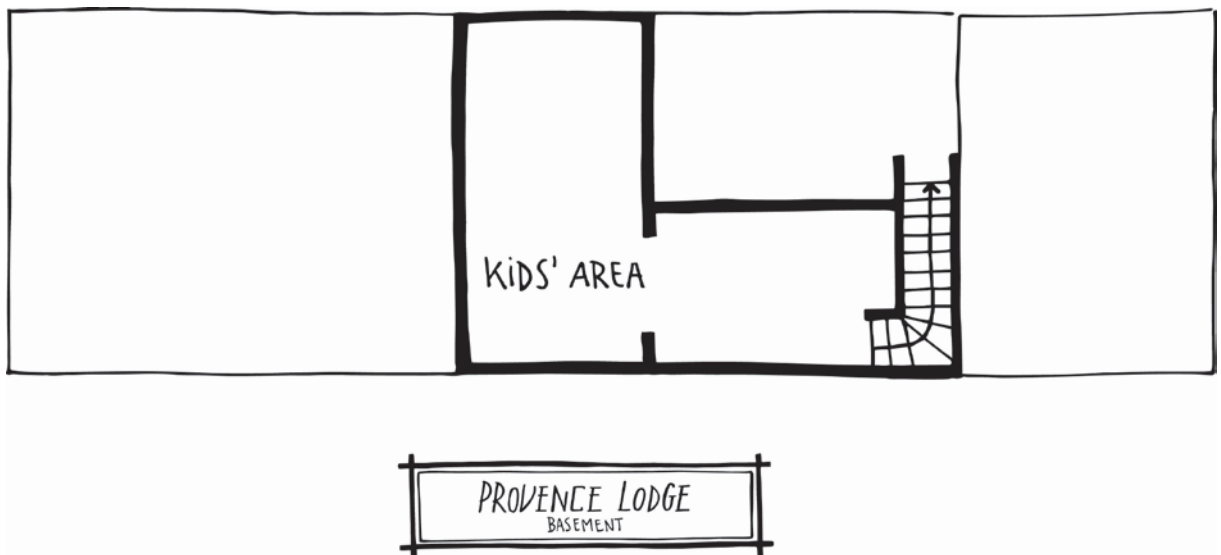

The first floor contains the four bedroom arrangements. The final artwork must clearly identify Valley View Room, Hill View Room, Family Room with its adjoining small twin room, Classic Room and all bathrooms.
