Dear Members,

This year marks 67 years of Alaska's statehood, 111 years since the Anchorage Chamber of Commerce was established, and the 250th birthday of the United States of America. In the Last Frontier, we give the "American Dream" a new meaning. We fill our freezers with fish that we harvest and process, summit North America's highest peaks, and transition from the summer Midnight Sun to winter's cold, aurora-filled nights.

In Anchorage, Alaska, our business community is as resilient and thriving as our environment. From small-town, family-owned shops to Alaska Native Corporations to national brands and agencies, it takes a village, and we all rely on each other to get through the seasons. We're proud to be home to more than 200 Indigenous communities and several generations who made the journey and have continued appreciation and dedication to our state.

The Anchorage Chamber of Commerce serves nearly 800 businesses in Alaska, and the hard work, courage, and dedication that it takes to start your own company embodies America's values of individualism, hard work, and the ability to choose our own path.

We are writing this letter to America as part of a nationwide initiative, Together for 250, and are honored to represent our great state of Alaska. Happy Birthday, America!

Sincerely,

The Anchorage Chamber of Commerce
