

FORGE

Congratulations on joining the team! There are millions of job openings each year in the United States of America, yet you chose to be here. That couldn't be more special. If you are the type of person who strives for excellence, you've found the right place for you.

This is a job for people who can't afford to stay stagnant. People with high expectations for themselves. People who don't give up on themselves. We fly across the country to random locations and knock on sell products on strangers' doorsteps for 1-2 weeks at a time. This isn't a normal job, and it's not for normal people.

Plenty of people have big aspirations, but the vast majority lack the structure, mentorship, and roadmap to turn those aspirations into reality. Our mission at FORGE is to transform your ambition into leadership. To build the level of confidence in you to overcome life's challenges. To close the gap between where you stand today and the potential within you. This opportunity isn't about turning you into a salesperson; it's about forging you into a leader.

We've built a community of hard-working individuals all aligned on the same mission - to become the best version of themselves. At FORGE, you'll have access to world-class training, proven systems, and leaders who've walked the exact same path you're starting today. But here's what you need to know: we can provide all the resources and support, but only you can do the work.

Your new chapter starts now. Not tomorrow. Not next week. Today. We couldn't be more excited to have you as part of the team, and we'll be with you every step of the way. Coaching you, celebrating your wins, and helping you get back up when you stumble, because that's what we do. We forge greatness, one rep at a time.

Welcome to FORGE, your transformation begins today.