HERITAGE WINE. MODERN CONTEXT.

The 2022 Growing Season was characterized by very wet weather late into the spring, a three week-later-than-average bud break, two mid-April frost events, the first more severe than the second, all followed by humidity throughout the summer leading to mildew pressure unlike anything seen by the industry in recent memory. To add insult to injury, the Rogue Valley in Southern Oregon also saw July hail storms. There were, however, not one but two pieces of extreme good fortune that ultimately lead to outstanding quality in the 2022 vintage: a high fruit set and good fruitfulness in many secondary buds made up for losses to frost for many if not most vineyards, and autumn rains by and large stayed away until late October, a happy shock to growers and winemakers who spent the harvest season looking over their shoulders expecting the clouds to open at any moment.

By the time the true Oregon rains finally came, the vast majority of wine grapes were harvested, with most fruit coming into wineries 2-3 weeks later than in most recent vintages.

Aptly named for the spectacular sunsets observed from the vineyard, Sunset View sits on a west-southwest facing slope on the low western edge of the Eola-Amity Hills. The 2022 Amity Sunset View Single Vineyard comes from block 9, which is planted to clone 777 on Riparia Gloire rootstock. This block sits at the North edge of the property, nearly at the apex of the vineyard. Harvested on October 6, this 100% whole cluster lot saw 3 days of cold soak followed by a two-week fermentation in a small open-top fermenter, this wine walks the line perfectly between ripe fruit and fresh herbaceous character with balance and finesse.
