In the Land of Blackcurrant

DID YOU KNOW?

- 1 A PROTECTED DESIGNATION OF ORIGIN
 The Dijon blackcurrant is the only fruit with a Protected Geographical Indication (PGI) in Burgundy. This guarantees that the berries are locally grown and are produced using specific expertise, particularly for the manufacture of the famous blackcurrant liqueur (Crème de Cassis).
- 2 THE LEGENDARY KIR
 Burgundy blackcurrant liqueur is inseparable from the Kir, invented in Dijon by Canon Félix Kir, mayor of the city in the 1940s. The combination of aligoté white wine and blackcurrant liqueur has become an iconic aperitif tradition in the region.
- 3 A BERRY OF LONGEVITY
 Blackcurrant is known as the “plant of longevity” in Burgundy. Rich in vitamin C, polyphenols, and anthocyanins, it was already used in herbal medicine in the Middle Ages for its anti-inflammatory and circulatory properties.
