GREEN MIND

Green Mind has devoted itself to product recollection in order to give a new life to everything we dispose. “We also take care of the ecology and with this we can leave new generations a better environment quality. For Green Mind it is extremely important to have partners who want to have raw material of prime quality in all their products”, says Saúl Solaeche, General Manager, Green Mind.

As an ecological responsible company, Green Mind conducts its own „gathering“ centers nationally, increasing the useful life of the sanitary fillings, and with this, creating larger economic, social and environmental benefits. Green Mind recycles nearly six million plastic bottles that otherwise could pollute the environment. The company has 14 collection- and recycling plants all over Mexico.

Green Mind is committed to quality and excellence with the purpose of satisfying the needs of their customers, constantly optimizing the processes and emphasizing the ongoing development of its partners. Knowing not only the growth but also the changes and improvements that the packaging industry has been experiencing, Green Mind ventures into this market segment with the acquisition of its first viscoSHEET line for the production of PET sheet, adding a link to its flakes' productive process thus staying true to its principle of corporate verticalization. With this choice GreenMind is strongly committed not only to state-of-the-art technology, but they have also focused their attention on meeting the supply needs in terms of both quantity and quality, and thereby solving a problem that has become a priority for many companies in the sector. An initial capacity of 1,700 kg/h will allow the organization to meet the needs of their potential thermoforming customers. The new operation is a crucial milestone for Green Minds diversification and integration strategy.
