

Corporate Tickets

Corporate tickets make it extremely easy for corporates customers, charities or teams to purchase places to a given event and then manage who can claim those places.

How it works

The corporate, charity or team can purchase multiple tickets to a given event in one go. They can then use the Eventrac dashboard to invite people to claim their tickets.

It takes no more than a minute to purchase multiple tickets, and then corporations, charities, or teams can use the Eventrac dashboard to administer the tickets. This can either be done by sharing a global link or inviting people to claim their places.

The system can be setup to automatically send reminder emails to participants if they have been invited but have not yet claimed their place. Similarly, deadlines can be set and automatically enforced to ensure all participants have accepted their pre-purchased places by a given date.

Purchasing tickets:

The corporate, charity or team simply enters their details (the ticket buyer), selects how many places they want and [optionally] enters their team information, so that all participants are linked to the same team.

The ticket buyer then pays for the tickets without providing any details upfront

Managing tickets:

The ticket buyer can then use the Eventrac dashboard to manage the pre-paid tickets and invite people to claim their places. This can be done in a number of ways:

1. Share the global link which will then assign a ticket to anyone who uses the link
2. Invite people by either using the "send email" method or by sharing their unique link
3. Completing the booking on behalf of someone

Self Managing Tickets

Once participants receive the invite, they then enter their own details. The tickets have been pre-paid, so there is no need for the participant to pay for the tickets, but they can choose to make a donation, purchase additional add-ons, such as merchandise or setup fundraising pages (if applicable)

Once a participant has completed their booking, the corporate can see the ticket has been claimed.

Congratulations

Your bookings are now complete. We are dispatching the confirmation emails to you, so keep an eye on your inbox.
