LIN'S ASIA KÜCHE – ORIGIN AND CRAFT

I founded Lin's Asia Küche in 2011 in Dornbirn, Vorarlberg.

Not from a business plan, but from a simple desire: to cook food the way I grew up with – honest, fresh, and made with care.

I was raised with the sound of sizzling pans, the aroma of spices in the air, and conversations about flavor. In my family, cooking was never just about nourishment – it was expression, care, and connection.

My father, Chef Lin, originally from India, brought with him decades of experience in international fine dining, including the development of Asian cuisine in a five-star hotel in Switzerland, Bad Ragaz.

His words still guide me today: "Cooking is imagination."

To me, that means freedom in creativity – paired with mindfulness in every step.

My mother, Lisi aka Mama Lin from Taiwan, passed on something equally important: lightness, balance, and an intuitive understanding of what truly nourishes the body.

From these two worlds, my cuisine was born – calm, clear, and full of flavor.

I truly believe: You are what you eat.

That's why I choose ingredients consciously. Not striving for perfection, but always with care. Fresh vegetables are sourced as locally as possible. Spices are selected for their origin and quality. And every dish is created not just to satisfy, but to feel good.

If you prefer it milder, spicier, or need something adjusted – just let us know. This kitchen is flexible, because people are different.

Today, dishes from Lin's Asia Küche have found their new home at Open World.

Modern in interpretation, open in spirit, and always freshly prepared.

This cuisine is meant to be shared.

At the table. In the moment. With people.

WELCOME TO LIN'S ASIA KÜCHE AT OPEN WORLD.

– Kathy
