Government facilities are where meaningful work happens. From city halls to federal agencies, this is where decisions are made, policies move forward, and essential services are delivered to the people and communities they support. At Source, we make furnishing government spaces simple and straightforward. Our seating and tables are thoughtfully designed, contract-ready, and built for high-use environments. Backed by responsive support and established purchasing pathways, we help you create design-forward spaces that support your mission—today and into the future.
