

Behind every natural diamond is a path worth telling.

A story that begins deep within the earth, shaped over billions of years, and passed from hand to hand across generations. But for too long, the journey of a diamond has been hidden in shadows, leaving questions of origin, ethics, and sustainability unanswered.

At Tracr we have decided that time has arrived to tell all those stories through technology that should be democratic and approachable, and that it can help shine a light on the unseen, making the invisible journey of a diamond clear.

---

We believe that luxury isn't just sparkle, it's substance.

We believe impact begins with transparency. We aim to become the universal standard of traceability and sustainability in the diamond industry and our foundations lie in the ESG principles that include environment, social and government.

We believe trust isn't built on glossy promises, but on verifiable truth.

We are convinced that progress comes from many hands, not a few.

From miners working responsibly, to brands who stand by their word, to customers who demand to see the story.

For us, responsibility is the foundation.

By helping enable responsible sourcing, reducing environmental impact, and investing in sustainable innovation, we commit to creating a new diamond industry.

---

We believe in democracy.

We believe in democracy within our industry and technology accessible to all players, not a privilege for the few. We make our platform open and transparent, giving clarity without barriers, so that miners, manufacturers, retailers, and consumers alike can participate with equal confidence, by removing complexity.

We believe partnership is the cornerstone of progress and we create a network built on collaboration.

Our platform empowers every partner to share knowledge, and deliver value with confidence. Together, we amplify trust, unlock growth, and shape the industry.

For the diamond industry.
For the brands and retailers.
For consumers.
But also for the truth seekers.
The bold.
The ones who care and demand more.

Tracr
Team

