

Privacy Policy

Last Updated: March 6, 2026

1. Overview

Founder Inflection ("we," "our," or "us") respects your privacy and is committed to protecting the personal information you provide through this website.

This Privacy Policy explains how we collect, use, and safeguard your information when you visit our website, submit a form, schedule a session, or otherwise interact with our services.

By submitting your information through this website, you consent to the practices described in this policy.

2. Information We Collect

When you complete a form on our website, we may collect the following information:

- Name
- Email address
- Company or professional role (if provided)
- Any information you voluntarily include in form submissions or communications

We collect this information solely for professional communication and service-related purposes.

3. How We Use Your Information

If you submit your email address through a form on our website, we may use it to:

- Respond to your inquiry or request
- Send information related to services you expressed interest in
- Provide follow-up communication regarding leadership development services
- Send occasional updates, insights, resources, or relevant content
- Share invitations to events, workshops, or offerings related to leadership development

- Improve our services and understand how visitors interact with our website

We aim to keep communications relevant and infrequent.

4. Email Communications and Opt-Out

By providing your email address, you agree that we may contact you using that address for the purposes described above.

You may opt out of receiving future communications at any time by:

- Clicking the unsubscribe link included in email communications, or
- Contacting us directly at: info@founderinflection.io

Once you opt out, we will promptly stop sending non-essential communications.

5. Data Sharing

We do not sell, rent, or trade your personal information.

Your email address and personal information will never be shared with third-party companies for marketing purposes.

We may use trusted service providers (such as scheduling platforms, email delivery services, or website hosting providers) to operate our business. These providers may process data on our behalf but are not permitted to use your information for their own marketing purposes.

6. Data Security

We take reasonable steps to protect your personal information using commercially reasonable security measures.

However, no method of transmission over the internet or electronic storage is completely secure, and we cannot guarantee absolute security.

7. International Users

This website may be accessed from countries outside the United States. By submitting your information, you understand that your data may be processed and stored in the United States or other jurisdictions where our service providers operate.

We strive to handle personal data in a manner consistent with widely accepted privacy standards.

8. Your Rights

Depending on your location, you may have certain rights regarding your personal information, including:

- The right to access the personal information we hold about you
- The right to request correction of inaccurate information
- The right to request deletion of your data
- The right to withdraw consent for communications

To make a request, please contact:

info@founderinflection.io

9. Changes to This Policy

We may update this Privacy Policy from time to time to reflect changes in legal requirements or our business practices.

The updated policy will be posted on this page with a revised “Last Updated” date.

10. Contact
