DID YOU KNOW?

Henry Fuller Davis, also known as “12 Foot Davis” is well known throughout the Peace Region after striking gold in Northern B.C. and spending much of his life as a fur trader on the Peace River. He was known for good business sense and friendliness, earning a place in local hearts that eventually led to the 12 Foot Davis grave site and scenic marker. A breathtaking lookout featuring interpretive panels, picnic benches, geocaching and pathways was created in his name. The area overlooks the town of Peace River and is loved by locals and visitors alike.
