

Learning to eliminate dominant malaria vectors

Prof Dr Fredros Okumu

University of Glasgow's School of Biodiversity, One Health and Veterinary Medicine (UK)

This talk will discuss conditions under which certain malaria vector species can be eliminated, how vector elimination can be relied upon as a means to protect malaria control gains in endemic settings. Both historical and contemporary examples will be provided, in form on specific case studies

