Cookies and Similar Technologies

First and Third-Party Cookies

A “cookie” is a small file created by a web server that can be stored on your device (if you allow) for use either during a particular browsing session (a “session” cookie) or a future browsing session (a “persistent” cookie). “Session” cookies are temporarily stored on your device and remain there until they expire at the end of your browsing session. “Persistent” cookies remain stored on your device until they expire or are deleted by you. Local shared objects (or “flash” cookies) are used to collect and store information about your preferences and navigation to, from, and on a website. First-party cookies are set by the website you are visiting, and they can only be read by that site. Third-party cookies are set by a party other than that website.

Other Similar Technologies

In addition to cookies, there are other data collection technologies, such as Internet tags, web beacons, pixels (clear gifs, pixel tags, and single-pixel gifs), and navigational data collection (log files, server logs, etc.) that can be used to collect data as you navigate through and interact with a website. For example, web beacons are tiny graphics with unique identifiers that are used to understand browsing activity. UTM codes are strings that can appear in a URL when you move from one web page or website to another. The string can represent information about your browsing, such as which advertisement, page, or publisher sent you to the receiving website.

What Cookies and Similar Technologies Are in Use and Why Do We Use Them?

Google Analytics. We use Google Analytics to collect and process statistical data about the number of people using the Site and to better understand how they find and use the Site. The data collected includes data related to your device/browser, your IP address, and on-site activities to measure and report statistics about user interactions. The information stored is reduced to a random identifier. Any data collected is used in accordance with this Policy and Google’s privacy policy. You may learn more about Google Analytics by visiting <https://www.google.com/policies/privacy/partners/> and <https://support.google.com/analytics/answer/6004245>. You can learn more about Google’s restrictions on data use by visiting the Google Privacy Policy at: <https://www.google.com/policies/privacy>. To opt-out of Google Analytics, visit <https://tools.google.com/dlpage/gaoptout> and install the opt-out browser add-on feature. For more details, visit the “Google Analytics opt-out browser add-on” page located at <https://support.google.com/analytics/answer/181881?hl=en>.

Google Tag Manager. We may use Google Tag Manager, which allows marketed website tags to be managed using an interface. The tool itself (which implements the tags) does not use cookies and does not register identifiable data. The tool causes other tags to be activated which may, for their part, register personal information under certain circumstances. Google Tag Manager does not access this information. Google Tag Manager is subject to the Google Privacy Policy located at <https://www.google.com/intl/en/policies/privacy>.

Other Third-Party Technologies

Some third parties may use data collection technologies to collect information about you when you browse the Internet. We do not control these third parties' technologies or how they may be used. If you have questions about targeted content, you should contact the responsible party directly or consult their privacy policies.
