“I learned a lot about how to help my staff find their own solutions, and not just give them advice and direction. It’s really opened my eyes to another option for managing performance and developing my reports.” -2021 Participant

Enabling supervisors and managers with coaching skills to develop their staff is a key element to building a coaching culture. Our experienced facilitators are coaches themselves, and work with your supervisors to develop the skills and posture needed to spot ‘coaching moments’ and deliver coaching conversations effectively.

Program Agenda

- Coaching Defined
- The Role of the Supervisor
- The GROW Model
- How Careers Work
- Skills
 - Powerful questioning
 - Coaching mindset
 - Effective listening

The program includes 3 x 2-hour sessions and experiential ‘shadow coaching’ exercises to compound coaching skills between workshops.

BOLDLY supports your supervisors to embed their coaching approach in a dedicated digital environment, with ongoing access to coaching tools, resources, and best practices for 12 months post completion of the workshop.

Our programs are delivered in small cohorts, locally, all around the world.

Our clients have seen up-take in external coaching engagements as a result of these courses as supervisors are not only able to deliver a coaching style to their staff, they also recognise and collaborate with external professional coaches where relevant, to deliver staff engagement and performance.

Recommended maximum 12 participants per cohort.
