Loyal Pyczynski: Technical Requirements

As of January 01, 2026

Technical and Event Requirements

Loyal delivers high-energy presentations designed to challenge perspectives and elevate leadership performance. While Loyal can deliver a speaking-only keynote, the experience of his presentations are richer and resonate deeper with the audience when his media is included.

Presentation and A/V

- Loyal presents from his own Macbook using the Keynote app. The presentations have been optimized with custom fonts, animation, and volume control to ensure the best audience experience. Presentation files are large (2+GB) due to embedded media, making distribution impractical.
- USB-C connection to a large display and amplified computer audio for embedded video/audio.
- Microphone: lavalier/lapel is highly preferred due to Loyal's upper limb difference.
- Loyal prefers to use his own wireless clicker (approx. 100 ft range).
- For larger venues or long distances between stage and computer, please provide a reliable long-range clicker.
- No internet access is required.

Professional A/V Production Note

- If a professional production A/V company is being hired to control the show (e.g., for a large conference like SXSW), please inform Loyal of the following at least 30 days in advance:
  - File format required for the presentation: Apple Keynote, MS PowerPoint, or Google Slides. Loyal's preference is Apple Keynote.

- If audio or video media files need to be played via separate A/V channels from the main presentation. If so, I will provide a Google Drive link to the media files along with a cue sheet indicating the slide number to be played.

Stage Setup

- A podium is preferred to store Loyal's robotic prosthetic, if available. Otherwise a stool will suffice. If nothing is available—that's ok—please let Loyal know in advance.
- 1 bottle of water or a glass of water on stage.

Pre-Event Needs

- Access to a quiet, private space before the presentation is appreciated, but not a requirement.

Filming and Livestreaming

- Please refer to your contract for granted filming and broadcast rights provided by Loyal. Typically this is permitted if Loyal receives a high-quality digital recording within two weeks of the event for which he may use for promotional purposes.
- Please notify Loyal in advance if the session will be livestreamed.

Intellectual Property

- Please refer to your contract regarding Intellectual Property rights. Typically all presentation content remains Loyal's exclusive intellectual property and may not be shared or resold without prior written approval.
- Loyal does not distribute slides or media.
- Audience members are welcome to photograph slides and share them on social media. Tagging Loyal on his social channels is not required, but appreciated.
