Flagler County is a thriving community with a low average cost of living and an abundance of cultural, recreational and leisure opportunities. Providing a real resort-like lifestyle, Flagler is a coastal community with both pristine beaches and the Intracoastal Waterway. The county offers up to double the State's job creation and workforce training incentives and customizes incentive packages – even vacating the City of Palm Coast city hall building to make it available for a particular business. Flagler County is a member of the internationally known Florida High Tech Corridor, and the Flagler County Airport is a designated Federal Trade Zone.
