Reinforcing ABA Therapy Skills at Home

ABA therapy is the gold standard for autism care. Children make the most progress when families reinforce skills at home, in the community, and during daily routines. These simple strategies can make a big difference:

- 1 Reinforce skills everywhere: If your child learns to ask for “bubbles” during playtime in therapy, encourage “bubbles” while playing at the park.
- 2 Keep routines consistent: Use the same supports at home (like visual schedules) and share them with grandparents, teachers, or babysitters.
- 3 Practice together: Role-play greetings, sharing, or turn-taking with family members so new skills carry over to real life.
- 4 Use reinforcers: Connect effort to what your child loves — bubbles, songs, or favorite treats or toys.
- 5 Celebrate small wins: Cheer for every new word, shared toy, or a brave first bite!

At Behavior Frontiers, our robust 90-day Caregiver Training Program ensures families are never alone on this journey.
