

Dr. Wes Marshall is part of the leadership team and serves as the PI of University of Colorado Denver. Dr. Marshall is a professor of Civil Engineering and affiliate faculty in Urban and Regional Planning at the University of Colorado Denver, director of the CU Denver Transportation Research Center and co-director of the Active Communities/Transportation (ACT) research group. He received his Professional Engineering (P.E.) license in 2003 and focuses on transportation teaching and research dedicated to creating more sustainable and resilient systems, particularly in terms of road safety, active transportation, and transit-oriented communities. Having spent time in the private sector with Sasaki Associates and Clough, Harbour and Associates, Dr. Marshall has been working on planning and site design issues related to civil and transportation engineering for more than two decades. His role on the leadership team for the CETOC will be to facilitate the administration, research, education, and technology transfer efforts at the University of Colorado Denver. Dr. Marshall will also facilitate collaborations between CU Denver and other universities in CETOC.