Directional Drilling

The Zemba Companies own and operate directional drilling machines, allowing us to install various pipe sizes using a trenchless method. These machines can install pipes ranging from 1/2 inch to 30 inches in diameter. This specialized installation technique provides a cleaner, less disruptive solution for a wide range of projects.

Site Utility

The Zemba Companies own a variety of track-mounted excavators, rubber-tire backhoes, and essential support equipment—including skid steer loaders, wheel loaders, hydraulic hammers, hydraulic tamps, and trench boxes. This allows us to efficiently install storm sewer, sanitary sewer, and waterline piping of all sizes, as well as headwalls, catch basins, and manhole structures. We have successfully completed full-site development utility installations, cross-country sanitary systems, and waterline system installations.

RIES

Residential Industrial Environmental Services

The Zemba Companies operate hydro-excavation units, which are portable vacuum systems mounted on trucks. These units feature a powerful vacuum pump with an 8-inch suction hose and a hydraulic boom, allowing us to clean catch basins, culverts, and other debris from roadways, walls, pits, and tanks. Additionally, our hydro-excavators are equipped with a high-pressure water jetting system, which loosens materials without damaging structures. This system is particularly useful for locating buried utilities during pipeline installation projects, as it cuts through soil and exposes underground utilities without the risk of damage that can occur with backhoes or shovels.

camera inspections

The Zemba Companies own and operate mobile push and robotic camera units for pipe inspections after jetting. These cameras can record inspections onto a flash drive or upload them to a cloud account for records. We can inspect pipes ranging from 3 inches to 72 inches and accurately locate blockages or pipe direction changes from above ground, marking them for potential excavation if needed. Our newest addition, lateral launch capability, allows us to locate and mark lateral lines that connect to main lines, helping to prevent damage during excavation or directional boring.

The Zemba Companies operate a fleet of hydro-excavation units, which are truck-mounted, portable, self-contained vacuum systems. Each truck is equipped with a large vacuum pump, a hydraulic boom, and an 8-inch suction hose, enabling it to clean catch basins, culverts, bins, and more from roadsides, walls, pits, and tanks. These specialized vehicles also feature a high-pressure water jetting system with multiple applications. When used alongside the vacuum system, the water jet loosens materials for removal without causing residual damage to the structure being cleaned. This system has proven invaluable for locating existing buried utilities ahead of our trenching crews during pipeline installation projects. The water jet cuts through soil, and the loosened material is then vacuumed out, safely exposing any buried utilities or structures. Hydro-excavation significantly reduces the risk of damage compared to traditional excavation methods using backhoes or shovels.

family field day

The Zemba Companies Family Field Day is the event that is closest to our hearts. This event was born from the idea that children of all ages should have the opportunity to play in the dirt. In the early days, we created this event around 4 pieces of small excavating equipment that each child had the opportunity to run with the assistance of our teammates, a small petting zoo, and straw maze. Over the years, the event has grown to have approximately 8 pieces of equipment, a straw maze, face painting, pig chase competitions, a corn pit, and many other fun activities for kids to enjoy. This project is made possible by the hard work of our teammates who volunteer their time and our corporate sponsors that donate the money to make this event possible. All the proceeds are donated to local organizations and charities.

giving back

Giving back is an important element of the corporate philosophy at The Zemba Companies. We dedicate many resources, and our teammates donate a tremendous amount of hours to help support many community organizations. We are proud of our efforts in the support of events like the Carr Center Cake Auction, Bowl for Kids' Sake - BBBS, The Animal Shelter, local fairs and 4H groups.

our mission

Our Mission is to uphold the high expectations, values, integrity & dedication we are known for. We achieve this by having the right culture, the right people, the right tools, and the relentless drive to be the solution.

We simply "Just do".

Since 1987, The Zemba Companies have been committed to our community, customers, teammates,
