We're where the magic doesn't stop for the holidays, and the best decision you'll make this school-holiday.

We know the holidays can mean a scramble for childcare. That's not what happens here.

During term breaks, we simply open our doors wider so more little dragons can join in on the magic that's already happening at Hatching Dragons every single day.

We know the holidays can mean a scramble for childcare. That's not what happens here. During term breaks, we simply open our doors wider so more little dragons can join in on the magic that's already happening at Hatching Dragons every single day.

We're not just holiday cover. We're early years development specialists, Ofsted-rated Good — and every day here is still built around helping children meet, and exceed, the developmental milestones of their age. Holidays included, not excluded.

Our curriculum blends the best of Montessori, Reggio Emilia, and inquiry-led practice — the same approach we use every other week of the year, just with more room to breathe when the usual structure of term time falls away.

If your family speaks more than one language at home, that carries through the holidays too: Mandarin, Arabic, Greek, French, and Spanish, woven into play rather than paused for six weeks.

Your child won't be parked in front of a screen or shuffled through the day. They'll be woven straight into the same rich, hands-on curriculum our enrolled children experience — language immersion, creative play, movement, and discovery — brought to life by the same qualified Early Years Development Specialists who design it, holidays included.

What's on offer

While their friends are watching the clock tick down to term time, your child will be building, questioning, creating, and connecting — guided by specialists who know exactly how children learn best at every stage. This isn't just holiday cover. It's holiday development.

Holiday cover doesn't mean holiday standards. The same staff-to-child ratios, the same DBS-checked, safeguarding-trained team, and the same daily observations and EYFS framework apply during the holidays as they do every other day of term. Nothing about the quality changes — only the calendar does.

Curated just for holiday clubbers.

Alongside our everyday curriculum, we've built a bank of activities designed specifically for the school holidays — themed adventures, messy play, storytelling, and imaginative games that make every day feel like an event, not a routine.

Real adventures, not just activities.

Holiday Camp weeks often step outside the nursery altogether — think farms, zoos, museums, and London landmarks. It's part of the same excursion programme that runs all year, just with more room to explore when term time isn't competing for the calendar.

Flexible, on your terms.

Life doesn't always fit into neat five-day blocks, so neither do we. Book a single day when you need a hand, or the whole week when you need more breathing room. Entirely up to you.

Food, sorted (if you want it).

Hungry little dragons do their best exploring on a full tummy. Freshly prepared food is available for an additional cost, made fresh on-site every day by our in-house chef and kitchen team — one less thing on your to-do list.

You don't have to figure this out alone.

There's more than one way to make Holiday Camp work for your budget, too.

We know holiday camps are one more cost on top of everything else the school holidays bring, and that's not lost on us. We try to make it a little easier where we can — through multi-day discounts and the wider support we offer families throughout the year — so if cost is a worry, talk to us before it becomes a reason to say no.
