Arbor Nota celebrates a strong runner-up finish and congratulates Epsilon, Utilix, and Sovereign on a thoughtful and competitive tournament.

The tournament brought together a strong group of productivity-focused products, with each round giving the community a chance to vote for the tools they believed were most useful, thoughtful, and promising. Arbor Nota advanced all the way to the final round before finishing as runner-up.

"We're incredibly grateful to everyone who supported Arbor Nota throughout the tournament," said Timothy Prescott, founder of Arbor Nota. "Making it to the final round alongside so many useful products was genuinely encouraging. ProductArena gave us a chance to share Arbor Nota with more people, learn from other builders, and see how much care is being put into the next generation of productivity tools."

Arbor Nota congratulates Epsilon, the tournament champion, for earning the top spot. Epsilon is building a flexible, block-based digital workspace for shaping ideas with more freedom and less rigidity. Learn more about Epsilon here: <https://epsilonapp.site/>

Arbor Nota also gives a warm shoutout to Utilix (<https://tryutilix.com/>) and Sovereign (<https://www.sovereign-ip-protection.com/>), the two semi-finalists who earned 3rd and 4th place in the competition.

“We want to thank Epsilon, Utilix, Sovereign, and every team that participated,” Prescott said. “Competitions like this are better when the products are strong, the builders are kind, and the community is engaged. We’re honored to have shared the bracket with these teams.”

Arbor Nota is designed to help people organize, sync, and share bookmarks across browsers and devices. Instead of letting useful links get scattered across browsers, chats, documents, and team tools, Arbor Nota gives users a calmer way to keep important resources accessible, organized, and easy to share.

The app is built for people and teams who rely on web resources every day, including remote teams, researchers, creators, operators, and anyone who works across multiple browsers or devices. Arbor Nota combines everyday productivity with a nature-inspired mission, supporting reforestation through its paid plans.

Following its 2nd place finish, Arbor Nota will continue improving its core bookmark management experience while expanding features that help users find what they need faster, launch work more easily, and stay focused online.
