Oil & Gas in Venezuela

The opportunity is real. So is the complexity.

Venezuela is re-entering the global energy market. Infrastructure investment is accelerating and operational demand is growing fast.

- Sanctions & regulatory complexity with shifting legal boundaries.
- Constrained port infrastructure with non-uniform regulations and costs.
- Foreign exchange restrictions and multi-currency exposure.
- Limited reliable in-country operators.

Poor execution leads to delays, legal exposure,
reputational damage,
and reduced returns.

In high-friction markets,
access is not the challenge.
Staying in control is.

Why partner with us.

Present since 1835.

Built for the long run. Proven through the hard years.

- Allyo is part of a group of companies that have over 190 years of uninterrupted operations in Venezuela, through every government, every economic cycle, and every crisis the country has faced.
- The same long-term commitment extended across Latin America's most complex markets, built on trust and institutional integrity.
